ITALIANS REJECT SURRENDER DEMANDS

ASSURE PUBLIC LOWER FOOD PRICES SOON

Warmer Clothing Also Ahead as More Wool Is Allotted to Civilian Use.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9 — Civilians were assured by government officials today that lower food prices and warmer clothing were in sight.

This was disclosed before a senate committee that the OPA proposes to roll back prices on fresh meats as well as butter, sugar and coffee. The plan is to use hundreds of millions of dollars of government money as a subsidy section to producers and processors so that levels of a billion could be achieved.

The war production board decided to double the amount of wool that may go into civilian woolen and worsted fabrics. The WPB ventured the wool supply was adequate to meet essential civilian and military needs, thus lightening prospects that clothing rationing could be avoided.

Poison Gas Threat

Those bright notes on the home front were clouded by renewed discussion about use of poison gas. President Roosevelt said yesterday there was evidence that the Axis was getting ready to resort to gas warfare. With an allied invasion of Europe imminent, this was the third time Mr. Roosevelt had discussed the possibility. He said that the United States would retaliate. Furthermore, said Major William N. Porter, chief of the chemical warfare service, effective protective devices have been developed and "we have plenty to give back."

Skyrocketing war costs, and hence a new tax bill, brought from Chairman George (D-Ga) of the senate finance committee a declaration that congress was willing to go to work on any suggestions of President Roosevelt. But, said George, Americans now are taxed as heavily as the British and the Canadians. The President said he would ask additional taxes soon, possibly on cigarets, tobacco and whisky. The pay-as-you-go tax bill, which Mr. Roosevelt said he would sign, is by itself not enough to siphon off excess public income, he added.

New Coal Climax

The wage dispute in the coal industry approached another crisis. Operators and mine union leaders concluded that their conversations were "farcical" and as a result, the question of a $2 a day pay boost demanded by the United Mine Workers was placed squarely on the doorstep of the war labor board.

Congress continued to be embroiled in divergent views about legislation aimed at preventing another coal strike. House consideration on the bill suggested this

WAITING FOR BUDDIES ON BOMBING FLIGHT. Anxious eyes of ground officers and pilots not on flying duty for the day scan the skies over an American base somewhere in England as they wait for the return of their buddies in Flying Fortresses which are on a mission over Europe. Such sights are common as the personnel of the American fields turns out to watch for the return of bombers.

SCIOTO PLANT VOTE COUNTED

CIO Local Chosen Agent for Production Group, AFL for Truck Drivers.

Officials of the Cleveland regional office of the Labor Relations Board conducted an election at the Scioto Ordnance Plant yesterday among production and maintenance employes and truck drivers, chauffeurs and helpers employed by the U. S Rubber Co.

It was unofficially reported today that approximately 80 per cent of all production and maintenance workers eligible to participate in the election voted. Ninety-one per cent of all those who did vote stipulated Local 241, United Rubber Workers of America, CIO, as their sole bargaining agent, union and company officials announced.

Eligible for this election were all those engaged in production or maintenance excluding truck drivers, members of either the plant patrol or fire department, office or technical workers. The rubber workers union was previously certified as bargaining agent for the patrolmen and police matrons in an earlier NLRB election and action is now pending for a similar certification for the firemen.

Local 632, Teamsters union, AFL, won the right to represent truck drivers, chauffeurs and helpers employed at the plant when 91.5 per cent of this class of employes favored the AFL group over the CIO organization Donald L. Martin, business agent for the teamsters union, said the Marion plant was the seventh ordnance plant in the country in which the Teamsters union is now recognized as the sole bargaining agent for truck drivers and affiliated workers.

John D. House, business agent for the rubber workers union, reported his organization would commence negotiations with company officials next week for the establishment of an agreement.

On June 16 the newly-recognized union will meet in the union hall at 133½ East Center street and nominations for officers will be held. The election will be held one week later in the hall.

Blood Donor Unit Arrives

Will Be Here Three Days; More Registrations Needed for Friday.

The Red Cross Blood Donor Mobile unit arrived today from Columbus and is located at Epworth Methodist church where blood donors may make their contributions today and Thursday and Friday. Today is Universal Cooler Corp. day at the blood donor center, as all registrants are from the company's plant. One hundred and seventy-five officials and employes are registered for donations today.

There are sufficient registrations for Thursday, it was reported today at the Red Cross office, but there still is a need for more for Friday.

The unit is in charge of an Army medical corps physician, Lt. J. J. Arenstrom, who came to the Columbus Blood Donor Center from the Army Medical Center in Washington, D. C. He is accompanied by a staff of competent nurses who make the process of extracting blood from donors something that is pleasant and inspiring and leads to a negligible degree of systemic shock. Ninety-eight per cent of all who go through blood centers or mobile unit setups experience no adverse reaction whatever from their experience, it is said.

The need for the blood in large quantities, at this time, is seen from the fact that the Army and Navy have notified the Red Cross that they anticipate 250,000 American casualties in Europe before an invasion bridgehead into that continent, aimed toward the vitals of Germany and Italy, is successfully completed. That means that blood donor quotas must be rigorously maintained.

The Red Cross is looking to Marion to maintain a fine record in this most remarkable of enterprises, looking to the aid of America's fighting men, in active warfare.

CLOTHING RATIONING MAY NOT BE NEEDED

Prospect of Avoiding Limit Brightens Today.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9—Prospects of avoiding clothing rationing brightened noticeably today with the war production board's decision to double the amount of wool that may go into civilian woolen and worsted fabrics.

Barring difficulties with manpower and machinery shortages, both described as "serious obstacles," WPB said that the improved wool supply picture guaranteed sufficient raw material to meet all essential civilian and military needs.

The clothing produced, moreover, will be warm and long-lasting, for WPB yesterday eliminated the provisions that made part of each manufacturer's wool supply contingent on his mixing the fiber with rayon, cotton or other substitutes.

It appeared that the textile situation had reversed itself, and that the rayon and cotton which WPB a year ago was urging manufacturers to blend into their fabrics to stretch the wool supply now appears likely to become scarcer than wool itself.

Some officials said there was virtually no danger of rationing this year and possibly not for the duration.

Unexpectedly heavy shipments of wool in munitions boats returning from Australia — a continent which appeared last spring likely to be lost to the Japanese, or at least cut off from shipping connections—and careful conservation of the domestic wool clip have boosted the raw wool stockpile to about 1,800,000,000 pounds, greater than ever before.

THREE MORE FILE FOR CITY PRIMARY

Total of 13 Now Listed for Aug. 10 Vote.

Names of three more Marion men were added to the list of candidates seeking nomination in the Aug. 10 primaries, making a total of 13 who have filed as candidates, election board officials reported today.

New candidates include two, both Republicans seeking nominations as councilmen-at-large, and one other man who is a candidate for the first ward council post on the Democratic ticket.

Seeking reelection on the Republican ticket as a councilman-at-large is Pearl H. Sells of 148 South Vine street and Charles H. Tate of 188 Franconia avenue, proprietor of the Little Bazaar at 146 North Main street, is a candidate for the same position. This is Tate's first political venture. Three councilmen-at-large will be elected in the November election following the primaries.

Only other new candidate is Harold Smith of 276 East Mark street, a salesman for the Central Ohio Distributing Co., who is seeking Democratic nomination as first ward councilman.

Prospective candidates have until 6.30, slow time, Friday evening to file, Charles G. Ritzler, deputy clerk of the county board of elections, said.

He said a number of Marion men have taken out papers preparatory to filing but as yet have not returned signed petitions. Among this group is Henry P. Drake of 335 North State street, a Marion realtor, who may seek the Democratic mayoralty nomination. He won the nomination two years ago but was defeated by Russell C. Snare, present mayor. Snare previously announced he would not be a candidate for reelection.

Nursery Donations Solicited

Steps towards furnishing the day nursery for pre-school age children of working mothers got under way today with announcement that the donations committee will be at the house Friday and Saturday of this week from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m. to receive contributions. The nursery will be housed in the Strelitz homestead on Hill street.

Mrs. Harold K. Mouser is chairman of the donations committee and she is being assisted by Mrs. R. L. Poland and Mrs. Carl F. LaMarche, members of the committee, and Mrs. John Jacoby, who is in charge of the toy contributions.

The committee stated today they are asking for equipment if available or money from organizations and individuals interested in the project. Furniture and other equipment is requested and especially needed are the following articles, the committee states: small tables to seat four children and chairs, supply cupboard for school materials, blocks, etc., desk and office equipment, lockers for the children's clothing, foot stools, wash basins, sheets for cots, towels and wash cloths, dishes for serving children's meals, children's table service, cooking utensils, especially double boilers and baking pans, nursery chairs and child's toilet seat inset, bathroom scales, piano, velocipede and any other play equipment in good condition. Any one with equipment not mentioned, and which they think might possibly be used is asked to call Mrs. Mouser.

The work of putting the house in shape for occupancy by the nursery is being done by the A. F. of L. and C.I.O., and changes to be made were planned by John Moore, local architect. All are donating their services.

GARRISON OF ISLAND FORT STILL RESISTS

Surrender Demand Dropped on Island from Allied Planes.

(Map on Page 7)

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 9—Allied planes dropped a demand for the unconditional surrender of Pantelleria yesterday but no reply has been received, it was announced officially tonight.

A communique said that when no reply was received the Italian island was bombed from the air and shelled from the sea and it "will continue to be subjected to bombing, bombardment and blockade."

The special war bulletin added that the demand was made in order to save the garrison and population of the island from unnecessary suffering.

Previously Axis broadcasts of a Rome communique said the desperately resisting Italian garrison of Pantelleria had rejected or ignored allied demands for surrender by last night — demands which ordinarily would be followed immediately by an amphibious attack if not complied with.

The axis broadcasts failed to state however, if the reported allied demands had contained a direct threat of invasion of the tiny isle 45 miles off Cap Bon, under punishing air siege and repeated naval bombardment for nearly a month.

Island Pounded Again

The allied headquarters communique today said the island fortress was heavily pounded again yesterday by British cruisers and destroyers—the sixth time in nine days that allied warships have moved within range of the island's supposedly formidable coastal batteries to pour in their rounds of big shells.

The allied communique said the warships accomplished "satisfactory" results without incurring any loss. At the same time allied bombers poured on another deluge of bombs, both in day and night raids.

The Rome radio said that leaflets dropped from the air yesterday called for the surrender of the island by 7 p. m., Tuesday, British double summer time, (1 p. m. Tuesday Marion time).

The Italian communique said: "The garrison of the island of Pantelleria which was uninterruptedly attacked from the air yesterday has not answered the request to surrender made by the enemy."

At the same time, the Rome announcement reported the island had been heavily bombarded by an allied naval squadron and declared one enemy unit was hit by axis planes. In yesterday's attack from the air, the communique said, five allied planes were destroyed by anti-aircraft defenses and ten by fighters.

140 Air Raids

The Rome radio said Pantelleria has been a target for numerous naval bombardments and 140 air raids since May 9. The announcement added:

"The heroic garrison of Pantelleria has firmly fought back against all attacks. The island's population is resisting gallantly and bearing all sacrifices."

The Italian war bulletin also reported allied raids yesterday on Sicily and Sardinia.

It asserted that German fighters shot down two Spitfires in a raid on Carbonia and surrounding area of the southern coast of Sicily. The raid resulted "in the collapse of some buildings and some fires" and a few people were injured, the communique said.

Two planes were shot down by

U. S. Fliers Have Air View of Attack on Pantelleria

Airmen Deliver Bomb Loads, Then Watch British Naval Ships Pour Shells Into Italian Fortress.

By The Associated Press

AT AN ADVANCED U. S. FIGHTER BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, June 8—(Delayed)—Adding an air view to a heavy bombing attack today, a correspondent saw British naval units shower the same target from the sea.

American Lightning pilots over this fortress said they got their biggest thrill watching the British warships pouring salvo after salvo into the rocky island

Italian island between Tunis and Sicily.

Just before taking off on the record mission one group of P-38 fighters was told that friendly naval vessels simultaneously would attack the enemy base, under an attack for the seventeenth successive day today and bombarded five times by British warships last week.

"We had a swell grandstand seat at more than 20,000 feet," said Lieut. Col. Troy Keith of San Jose, Calif., group commander.

"They were standing off shelling it when we got there. As soon as the B-17's we were escorting started unloading their bombs the war vessels turned enmasse and steamed in until it looked like they were within a quarter mile of Pantelleria harbor and turned broadside.

"They cut loose with everything they had.

"It was wonderfully timed and coordinated.

Gun Flashes Visible

"We could see the red flashes of the warships' guns—There seemed to be a number of them, cruisers and destroyers.

"They were really cutting loose. Greyish smoke belched steadily from the deck guns as the ships circled to avoid being hit in return and fired at will.

"We couldn't see what they were shooting at because the whole end of the island was covered with heavy brown dust clouds raised by the Fortress bombs. You actually could see the earth shake when these bombs hit.

"While the naval ships circled, firing continually our planes also were circling overhead to protect them from any surprise enemy attack.

"When the dust from the Fortress bombs began to settle the warships began pulling back from shore, keeping their big guns hot as they moved away. We could

NAVAL CLASS HEARS KNOX

Secretary Says "Place and Time for Striking Is Now Ours."

By The Associated Press

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 9 — Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox declared today that "secret information to us says the feeling in Tokyo and Berlin is akin to ours after Pearl Harbor. The choice, place and time for striking is now ours."

Abandoning almost completely his prepared text for a graduation address to approximately 700 Naval academy midshipmen, Knox also asserted:

"There is a lot of irresponsible talk about a second front. Today there are eight fronts, not one—Western Mediterranean, Eastern Mediterranean, the Atlantic, the South Atlantic, South Pacific, South Pacific, Russia and China."

The Navy secretary recalled that shortly after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, "our enemies in the Far East were winning victory after victory. Britain was a beleaguered isle and waiting for a blow. The initiative was all theirs. We had to reorganize our Navy and assemble and train our Army.

Change In Two Years

"Today, less than two years later, I am happy to say that we have assembled a mighty army. We have assembled a new fleet.

"Today, in contrast to that former day, the initiative is all ours. Secret information to us says the feeling in Tokyo and Berlin is akin to ours after Pearl Harbor. The choice, place and time for striking is now ours."

Referring to the Atlantic theater of war, Knox asserted that "each day sees fresh victories on that front."

Of China he commented that "it has been announced that within the past fortnight China has won its greatest victory against Japan on land."

Will Maintain Navy

He said America would not consent to post-war scrapping of her naval strength, and warned the axis that U. S. industry this year would build thousands of landing barges, "You can be sure we know why we are building them," he commented.

Knox also said the country's shipyards were turning out ships at the rate of six a day and that the total numerical strength of our fleet would be more than doubled this year, its tonnage up two-thirds.

In the prepared address, of which he used little, Knox had said:

"The United States is in this

WLB ORDERS PUBLIC MINE WAGE HEARING

Chance Fades for Agreement by UMW and Operators.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9—The war labor board today ordered a public hearing for tomorrow on the unresolved issues in the coal mine wage dispute while almost simultaneously a frean possibility of agreement between the miners and some of the operators arose.

The operators, both north and south, already had formally notified the WLB by telegram that no agreement on portal-to-portal pay or other issues had been reached within the 15-day period allotted by the board. Both sides had openly conceded late yesterday that negotiations were in a state of virtual collapse.

The possibility developed today, however, that UMW President John L. Lewis was using his previously employed strategy of splitting off some of the operators and signing with some of them.

This was only in the realm of possibility and no one would hazard a prediction. However, a sudden burst of activity developed when the joint wage conference reconvened.

In a telegram to representa-

NO LETUP IN ASSAULTS ON ITALIAN BASES

Pantelleria, Sardinia, Sicily Still Under Heavy Sea and Air Attack.

By The Associated Press

By sea and air, allied fighting men hammered Italy's Mediterranean citadels of Pantelleria, Sardinia and Sicily and stepped up the assault of war-ravaged Greece in widespread sweeps against the under side of Europe, it was officially disclosed today.

Italian headquarters announced that the garrison at Pantelleria had refused an invitation to surrender.

Leaflets dropped from the air demanded capitulation of the key island by 12 noon Tuesday, eastern war time, the Fascist war bulletin declared but it added:

"The garrison has not answered the request to surrender made by the enemy."

Rome said the island was violently bombarded by a large naval formation, but asserted that "the island's population is resisting gallantly and bearing all sacrifices."

Since May 9, it was announced, allied raiders have attacked the island 140 times.

While the world awaited fulfillment of Prime Minister Churchill's frank warning to Adolf Hitler that "amphibious operations of peculiar complexity and hazard on a large scale are approaching," allied communiques announced these blows over a 48-hour period.

Pantelleria—For the sixth time in little more than a week, allied cruisers and destroyers shelled the "Italian Gibraltar" yesterday, achieving satisfactory results without suffering either casualties or damage.

Bombers from the African command also pounded the volcanic isle yesterday, marking the 17th successive day of aerial attack there, and allied night raiders hit the outpost Monday night.

Sicily—Bombers from the Middle East heavily punished the ferry terminus and rail sheds at Messina, across a narrow strait from the "toe" of Italy, and left big fires raging near the city's main railway station.

Sardinia—Axis bases in southern Sardinia again felt the scourge of bombs from Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz' northwest African air force.

Greece—Striking into the European mainland in Greece, allied planes blasted a supply train near Kyparissia, on the west coast of the Peloponnesus, and ranged along both the Grecian west and east coasts to hammer enemy shipping.

Allied long-range fighters and bombers left two axis sailing vessels burning and a third listing badly in the Aegean, and attacked two tugs near the Gulf of Corinth.

The Italian garrison's reported refusal to surrender at Pantelleria indicated that Premier Mussolini's high command was determined to make it serve as an example to the invasion-jittery Italian people, regardless of the terrible punishment inflicted on the island by day and night.

Allied pilots said Italian garrison troops must be suffering acute shock from the weight of explosives rained on the isle almost without pause for more than two weeks.

Other developments at-a-glance:

Washington—President Roosevelt sounds third warning to axis against use of gas, says retaliation will fall upon offending nations; U. S. chemical warfare experts declare allied troops invading Europe will have effective protection against poison gas.

Italy—Rome lists 633,251 Italian casualties in three years of war, broadcast says Italy now "in very front line."

Russia—Red armies beat off German thrusts in two sectors; Berlin says big Molotov tank factory "almost completely destroyed" in triple raids on Gorki; Soviet command ignores German claim of big victory in Caucasus.

Southwest Pacific—U. S. Liberators raid Soemba island in Japanese-occupied Dutch East Indies, hit four other enemy bases.

Japan—Japanese warned to prepare for prolonged war, Tokyo parliament speaker says conflict is "eat or be eaten" struggle, calls for utter destruction of United States and Britain.

On the Russian front, Hitler's

Churchill Crossed Ocean On Vessel With War Prisoners

By The Associated Press

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, June 9—If German communiques announced a month ago that German troops had surrounded Prime Minister Churchill, Field Marshal Sir Archibald Wavell and about 20 other high ranking British officials they technically would have been true.

Churchill's ship, carrying him to the United States to attend the Washington conference with President Roosevelt, also had on board nearly 400 German prisoners of war—some of them high ranking officers, captured by allied forces during fighting in North Africa. News of the fact Churchill had travelled in the same ship with German prisoners was withheld by censorship here until today.

Officers on the ship—visiting this port later—that carried the British prime minister said that so closely was he guarded they failed to catch but a glimpse of him during the entire Atlantic crossing. Even when Churchill made his frequent strolls around the bridge officers could do no more than get a fleeting glance of the cigar-puffing statesman.

No one saw the prime minister board the ship and few saw him land. During the entire voyage the crew said they referred to Churchill as "Mister X" and few believed stories that their distinguished passenger was the British prime minister. He remained just another passenger during the voyage.

Canadian soldiers who accompanied the German prisoners to this side of the Atlantic, said the men laughed derisively when they arrived to hear that the allies had all but wiped out the axis forces in North Africa.

"Nothing but Yankee propaganda," they told their guards. "We all know the British will be completely knocked out of Africa within six weeks. We were told so before we were captured."

Eight of the prisoners almost reached the North American continent ahead of their 400-odd mates. They managed to squeeze through the ship's portholes and jumped into chilly harbor waters while the boat was still some distance from shore. They were intercepted by a naval vessel and returned to the ship, but not before they had covered some distance from the ship.

BOND BUYERS TO HAVE NAMES PLACED IN B-25

Sale Now Under Way at Palace Theater.

The Palace theater is participating in a war bond campaign sponsored by the North American Aviation Co. in cooperation with the United States government.

Each person who purchases a bond at the Palace booth, which is supervised by the Zeta Theta sorority this month, will have his or her name inscribed on a roster furnished by North American. This roster will be sent to the California company, microfilmed and placed in the cabin of a B-25 Mitchell bomber, one of the many planes made by North American.

After the microfilming job is finished by the airplane corporation the original copy of the roster will be returned to the Palace for display in the lobby. Each roster has space for 10 names of bond purchasers.

The lists will be certified by the president of North American before return to the theater. Every bond purchased in this novel campaign will go into Marion's war bond quota.

Home Canner's Manual: III

Foods May Be Kept In Many Ways

By DOROTHY SHANK
U. S. Bureau of Human Nutrition
Written for Associated Press

Canning is probably the most convenient and popular way of putting up well-liked and nourishing food at home. But don't overlook other good ways of keeping surplus fruits and vegetables for next winter.

Interest in drying food at home is rising, partly because dehydration has proved such a boon in feeding troops and civilians overseas, and partly because many home makers are ready and eager to try any practical way of preserving some food for family use. So let's consider drying first.

Drying food is as old as records of food itself. The Indians dried corn in the sun, thereby removing water in the simplest way. Modern Americans who live in dry, sunny places may copy. But, with possible exception of early sweet corn, it is considered better to use controlled heat for drying vegetables, even in sunny dry regions.

A dryer for home use is not hard to make. One type, known as the bird cage, hangs over the stove and can be used with gas, coal, wood, or liquid fuel. Another type is the cabinet, which can be designed for use on top of a stove or with a kerosene heater.

In drying, as in other ways of preserving food, it is important to select fresh, ripe, sound, clean food and to put it up promptly. Make the time from garden to finished product as short as possible. In a home drier, it takes 6 to 24 hours; vegetables, 2 to 15 hours—all depending on conditions from the size of pieces being dried to the type of equipment used.

As a prelude to drying, sulfuring fruit or steaming or dipping it into sale water helps hold color, though it is not necessary. Vegetables should be precooked in steam or a small quantity of boiling water. And when drying is over—when you test and decide fruits are tough and leathery, vegetables rigid and brittle—it is well to return the food to the dryer and reheat it 10 to 15 minutes as a precaution against insects.

There is more to drying than this brief outline can tell. If you plan to dry food indoors or out, you can obtain directions from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, or from your state agricultural college.

Fruits that may be satisfactorily dryed include apples, berries, cherries, peaches, plums. Drying vegetables is a more complex task than drying fruits. Each kind of vegetable suited to drying may require some special treatment. The variety of the vegetable, the maturity, the size and shape of pieces dried, are other points to be considered in choosing the best procedure.

Brining, krauting, and pickling are good ways to store tangy flavor and variety for winter meals. You can brine beets, purple top fall turnips, and snap beans, for example. You can kraut cabbage, turnips, lettuce. You can pickle almost any of the garden vegetables, such as cucumbers, green tomatoes, green peppers, cauliflower—and fruits, such as peaches, too, if you have sugar to spare.

HOME DEHYDRATING: Steamed green beans spread out on trays are being placed in a simple cabinet dryer.

Late summer is quite properly the height of pickling season. By then the homemaker is rounding out her food preservation campaign and can fit in these attractive items that are mainly "for flavor," if she has storage space and food materials to use for them.

One of the best ways to preserve food is quick freezing, if you can arrange to use this method. It is a method that holds flavor, color, and vitamins especially well. To quick freeze food, you need either a home freezer unit and storage cabinet, or else rented space in a freezer locker, and all of these facilities are very limited for the duration. No farm freezer units or storage cabinets are being manufactured now. Looking ahead, however, most of the manufacturers of household refrigerators are developing designs for home freezer cabinets — for post-war times.

One more good way to save food is storing. For storing fruits and vegetables you can use a cellar or storeroom, or construct an outdoor earth mound, trench, or pit. Temperature and humidity must be right for the foods you store. And if foods are to keep well, they must be of good quality and the right stage of maturity. If these conditions are taken care of, a wide variety of fresh garden crops may be stored — cabbage, pumpkins, squash, and the "roots," from turnips, carrots and beets, to onions and potatoes.

With so many ways to put up food, lack of canning equipment or some other bottleneck problem need not necessarily mean an end to plans to preserve food this season.

Girl Scout Camp Plans Made

It's patriotic to go camping this year, and Girl Scouts of Marion will be given every opportunity to do so, according to Mrs. E. O. Smith, commissioner of the Girl Scout council.

Urged on every hand by governmental agencies, private organizations, and anxious parents to give experience to girls that will make them self-reliant and resourceful, the Girl Scouts are expanding their program of outdoor activities.

Transportation holds no difficulty for Girl Scouts, who during the last year have had widening experiences in using their feet by a planned hiking program. Marion Girl Scouts will get to Day Camp, located south of Marion on the Smeltzer road, by riding the bus to the end of the line and taking the remainder of the way, which is a mile and a half.

Girl Scout day camps are increasing in startling numbers, Mrs. Smith says, since it is easier to plan such a program in city parks and woodland areas. The woodland territory Marion scouts are using is the property of Orla Berks.

Practical Experience

Problems are being turned into advantages in planning the 1943 camp season. Because of the shortage of handymen, girls will have the opportunity to learn much more about the actual physical operation of camp, thus growing in abilities. A sure knowledge of first aid and personal safety will stand them in good stead, with the need for this training because of shortages of nurses.

With food rationing, girls will learn the importance of food as they turn their ration books over to the camp dietitian, and watch their stamps carefully spent. Mrs. Smith, who is a dietitian, will help the camp staff plan the meals.

Day Camp for Marion girls will be in progress during July every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, officially opening July 6. Special plans include activities which are best carried on out-of-doors such as simple camperaft, hiking, nature lore, outdoor cooking, also dramatics, group singing and handicraft. There will be a bicycling unit for older girls.

Formed Into Units

Campers will be in groups, called units, with others of similar interests and experience. They will choose their own activities and make their own plans.

Camp will start at 9:30 a. m. and end at 3:30 p. m. on the days specified above. A Brownie unit will be conducted every Thursday.

MRS. E. O. SMITH

Day Camp will be an inexpensive recreation for Marion daughters, costing only 10 cents a day or $1 for the entire season (payable not later than July 1.) Girls must have the consent of both parents before they will be allowed to attend Day Camp.

Executive secretary of the council, Edith T. Treat, will be camp director. Girl Scout leaders and program consultants will be on the staff, and a trained first aider will always be on the site.

On rainy days the sessions will be held in the American Legion Dugout at 146 South High street.

The camp committee of the Girl Scout council is as follows: Mrs. E. E. Holt, chairman, Miss Marguerite Gehring, Miss Ruth Kleinmaier, Mrs. Elmer E. Smith and Mrs. F. L. Thomas.

Cincinnati Criticized After Blackout Test

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 9 — State Defense Director Ralph H. Stone said today that Cincinnati's participation in last night's test blackout of 12 counties of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky was "very unsatisfactory — particularly in the downtown district."

He said districts outside the metropolitan area did an efficient job. Principal violations involved lighted signs and display windows, but many downtown buildings left "as many as 15 lights burning," Stone asserted.

Eight Ohio counties participated in the trial. They were: Butler, Warren, Clinton, Highland, Adams, Brown, Clermont and Hamilton.

USE OF GAS BY NAZIS HINTED

Allies May Meet Poison When They Smash Into Continent's Defenses.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9 — A possibility that allied troops might have to fight their way into Europe through poison gas was tempered today by assurances from the chemical warfare service that effective protective devices have been developed.

President Roosevelt said yesterday that evidence that the axis was making "significant preparations" indicating an intention to use gas warfare was being reported "with increasing frequency from a variety of sources."

For the third time, he spoke of the possibility that the enemy would resort to what he called "such terrible and inhuman weapons" and he promised the axis armies and people in both Europe and Asia that once they loose poison gas there will be "full and swift retaliation in kind."

This retaliation, he said, would fall upon military centers, seaports, and other military objectives throughout the entire territory of the offending nations.

Use of gas "against any one of the United Nations will be regarded as having been committed against the United States itself and will be treated accordingly," Mr. Roosevelt declared.

The United States Army has itself developed a stand-by production of poison gases. Maj. Gen. William N. Porter, chief of the chemical warfare service, said last May that if the enemy starts using war gases "we have plenty to give back and they'll probably get more than they give out."

It is known, Porter said, that Germany and Japan have large stockpiles of gases deadly which are designed to attack the lungs, and others intended to blister and burn the skin. He added that American arsenals were because the same gases in almost unlimited quantities if the need arises, and, moreover, our methods of protecting our own troops against enemy gases have kept apace with our

The Fighting Women of Winthrop Street!

This is Martha Davidson, 28 years old. Funny thing, but Martha wasn't very much stirred up by this war. It's true that most of the boys in the town had gone. She bought a bond a month and did without that second cup of coffee, but she wasn't fighting mad yet. She was still thinking more about herself than she was about her country.

Then Martha received an invitation to visit her Aunt Susan.

Aunt Susan lives in a big old house on Winthrop Street. By the second day of the visit, she decided it would be a good thing for peace-time Martha to meet the women—the fighting women, of Winthrop Street. "Come in your work clothes," they were told—and they did, and here are a few of them.

Betty drives a taxicab, starts work at eight A. M. Last year she seldom got up before nine, rarely missed an afternoon party. Mary Lou joined the WAAC when her husband joined the Army, and gets a terrific kick out of her work at the Army Post. Kay traded nursing for matrimony five years ago. Now she parks her three-year-old at the day nursery and is back at the hospital again as a Registered Nurse. And Aunt Susan herself is busy with meals, housework, sewing—and still gives a good many hours to Red Cross, Civilian Defense and her Victory Garden.

The men of Winthrop Street are either in the Service or busy at essential jobs. It's the women we're talking about! Every one of them who can, is doing a man's work at a full-time job. And you can be sure it gives them deep satisfaction to be doing their part in this war.

Here's Martha again! Back home, but she's caught the fighting spirit of those women of Winthrop Street. She went straight to the local branch of the U. S. Employment Service the day she returned, and now she has a full-time job behind a ticket window, filling a vacancy left by a man now in active war service.

There are lots more women who could do likewise! Are you by chance one?

ROTARY HEARS TALK BY BAPTIST PASTOR

"Smug Complacency, Greed" Nation's Danger Spots.

Rev. J. B. Holloway, pastor of the Trinity Baptist church, was guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club Tuesday noon at Hotel Harding.

Rev. Holloway said smug complacency of many people and greed for material things are two of the greatest danger spots the country is facing in this war, which is the greatest crisis in the history of the country. He said, "Churches and ministers of churches should be the bulwark for highest morality, refuge for those in need, and offer spiritual strength. The churches should help corral the forces of righteousness and help hold aloft the banner of freedom."

He told of a professor he studied under in college who said, "when faced with a dilemma and with two alternatives, both of which appear to be wrong, choose the least wrong." The two alternatives the country faces, he said, are to fight or to become slaves of a dictator and lose our ideals. He used illustrations from the old and new testaments of the Bible. He said the way the prairie people combat a prairie fire is to burn the grass around their own property so that it becomes immune, using it as an illustration of how to combat the country's problem.

Visiting Rotarians were: Charles T. Kirk of Findlay, and W. D. Brown of Sullivan, Ind. Mr. Brown, a former secretary of the Marion Chamber of Commerce and former president of the Marion Rotary club, is now in the retail shoe business at Sullivan. He is visiting his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Shelton, of near Iberia.

Guests were: L. K. McGinnis of Marion, Cpl. William A. Selanders, stationed with the Air Corps in Charleston, S. C., L. G. Wilsman of Fostoria, J. H. Mankin of Columbus, and H. W. Brown of Tiffin.

Grocers, Meat Dealers Start Summer Closing

All independent and chain grocery stores and meat markets closed this afternoon for the first time, and will continue to close each Wednesday at noon during the summer months.

Final plans for the first closing were announced at a meeting of the Marion Association of Grocers and Meat Dealers on May 28 when Arthur Zachman, president of the association, named the following to serve as a grievance committee: Ira Bean, chain stores; James Bull, independent grocers; Clarence Smith, meat dealers and Alfred LaPierre, representative-at-large.

All grocery stores and meat markets will close on Wednesday afternoons except in weeks when a legal holiday is observed on a week-day, such as July 4 and Labor day. No definite date has been set for ending the Wednesday afternoon closing period.

Your Blood Is Needed

TODAY another mobile unit came to Marion from Columbus to collect blood, via the Red Cross, for conversion into plasma usable on the battle fronts. It is a real challenge to Marion citizenship.

The need for this blood is well known. The efficient service of the Red Cross in transporting it to processing laboratories and thence to active war zones, is also fairly well known. The rest is up to you . . and you . . and you.

One of the most graphic evidences of what this collected plasma has done, and can do, is in a letter to the Red Cross sent by Col. Hans Adamson, one of the men who was with Rickenbacker on the life rafts in the Pacific. As you may remember, he was the oldest and was very hard hit.

He had 13 different transfusions of blood or plasma. The first three were given him on a small sandspit of an island in the South Pacific where Rickenbacker, Bartek and he had been taken by the navy plane and PT boat which took them off the raft that had been their home for 21 days.

Those three transfusions gave him strength to be moved to a Navy base hospital. There he ran through many physical complications, but each time some unknown "plasma partner," as he calls the anonymous donor, came to his rescue. "The 13 partners," says Adamson, "restored my strength and kept me a going concern."

There will be many Adamsons soon when the imminent invasion of Europe gets under way. The Red Cross, with Army and Navy advice, is getting ready for a minimum of 250,000 casualties. More than 90 per cent of the wounded can be saved if we all do our duty, or rather exercise our privilege, in the Red Cross blood donor work.

So Much To Do

BEFORE it is lost in the commencement shuffle, one relic from the graduation of a few years back needs to be filed away among the curios of the New Era.

It is the notion—or, rather, it was the notion—that there is nothing for young men and women to do when they finish their schooling. Persons with misplaced sentimentalities used to pity the graduates because all the work had been done.

The same persons are pitying them now for a different reason. They are pointing out the hardships of a world in which there seems to be too much to do. Fortunately, the graduates don't believe that, either.

It is worth mentioning only as a reminder that the world is not static. Therefore, it cannot be made the subject of generalization without extreme risk. Fortunately, the young men and women who are the objects of misplaced pity usually are too busy congratulating each other to notice it.

It would be a disastrous thing if they ever believed outright the monstrous lies their misinformed elders try to tell them about the world, but they never will.

Invasion Suspense

THE worst kept secret of the war is the plan to strike the Axis—somewhere—this summer. It is plain from the trend of official statements and the resulting surge of civilian speculation that the grand strategy calls for a preliminary barrage of rumor to soften up the enemy.

According to this rumor, which must be sifted out thoroughly lest the truth be overlooked, the Axis must be prepared to resist in full strength at every point from Narvik in Norway, southward to the coast of Denmark and hence all the way down the Atlantic coast, through Gibraltar to the Middle East. Also according to rumor, the Axis had better be prepared to resist in Burma, Singapore, the Dutch East Indies and north in the Pacific to the Kurile islands.

While it is not to be imagined that Axis military speculation is as unsoundly based as the ordinary run of civilian speculation, or that the German, Japanese and Italian war staffs remain in ignorance of the whereabouts of the power concentrations that must precede invasion, it is not to be imagined either that invasion suspense is not taking a toll of their nerves, too.

News Behind the News

Government Agencies as Much To Blame as Lewis for Second Coal-Stoppage.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 9—Public contempt for John L. Lewis for the coal stoppages, and worry to suggest that Mr. Roosevelt did not take hold in dealing with it, presumably for fear of the effect on '44 politics.

These points may have their grains of truth, but down underneath them lurks the all-pervading fact that the government got itself so tied up in directives so deep and complex as almost to prevent prompt solution.

It did not get that way at the time, but when the war labor board marched down to the White House and threatened to resign in a body if Mr. Roosevelt did not shut up Fuel Administrator Ickes entirely and completely.

Mr. Ickes thereupon shut up, for a moment at least, a very big moment. Neither he nor the WLB, nor anyone else, in the government, asked Lewis to try to stop the mine from resuming their leisure at the expiration of their truce although the strike naturally was to follow automatically. When Mr. Ickes did get around to asking Lewis, the strike was stopped.

(Other happenings, author of a column that appears on this page from time to time, is on a two-week vacation trip and an article by him will not appear in The Star until his return.

WLB vs. Ickes

The fundamental government difficulty was that Mr. Ickes wanted one solution and the war labor board another, or at least, the WLB wanted to make whatever solution was to be adopted. Its jealousy over its authority certainly did as much to promote the second walk-out as did Mr. Lewis or the operators. All government just sat silently and let it happen.

The politically-minded Mr. Ickes had a virtual solution as far back as May 23, when he recommended $1.50 a day increase for the miners. Lewis was contending for $2, but finally agreed to accept the $1.50. Then Ickes submitted the idea to the operators and they turned him down, although he was supposed to be boss of the mines and they merely his agents.

Again, there was only five minutes differences in a settlement between the operators and miners. The operators were willing to grant Lewis portal-to-portal pay for 85 minute, but Lewis held out for 90 minutes. Then Ickes suggested a joint commission be appointed to determine the actual average portal-to-portal time, thus delaying a settlement.

The issue might have been concluded over the last week-end after Lewis had ordered the miners back to work. But the war labor board would not let the operators resume negotiations until the miners were actually in the pits Monday morning, thus losing two days of negotiations. This made the operators so angry at WLB, they actually joined Lewis in denouncing the board.

The whole silly contest was conducted in the public eye, in actual competition for headlines, with all labor anxiously watching to see what Lewis would get out of the government, hoping and planning to get the same or more for themselves later.

No one will emerge from such a man-made maize with any glory, least of all the war labor board.

Eye Treason Law

No doubt the administration would have liked to do something drastic about Mr. Lewis. It's wrath was higher than its actions. Mr. Roosevelt's lawyers even looked into the treason laws with an idea of using them on him.

Justice department lawyers went into the matter thoroughly, but later passed the word to interested senators that they could find nothing bearing sufficient legal glue to stick on the coal disruptor.

As a result, Democratic Senator Eastman (Miss.) is working with justice lawyers on a bill to change the treason law to punish, with penalties short of death, such actions against the good of the state.

As statutes stand now, Lewis could have been indicted for treason only in event violence developed around the mines traceable to his orders. Some sort of destruction of government property or impediment to government operation by violence would have to be involved. Naturally, Lewis was too smart to walk into such a trap.

Thunder in the South

By Ed Bridges
Associated Press Writer.

ATLANTA, June 9—Is the Solid South splitting in the political seams?

Maybe a rip here and a tear there, but sentiment-sounders fail to find any "runs" developing.

In brief, those in the political "know" look at it in this light:

As things go now, the Solid South isn't laying plans at all to join the opposition — but those Democrats in the saddle at the coming national convention had better get ready for some plain and fancy hoss trading.

Pledges Needed

The 1944 Democratic presidential candidate who expects the states below the Mason and Dixon line to climb aboard his bandwagon with their bloc of votes must make emphatic pledges to tear away economic barriers now hampering the South's full development. That's the gist of it.

And so say several Southern governors who are zealously pressing a campaign for equality of freight rates for the South, equal distribution of federal funds for the South, and a healthier respect for states' rights.

As for bolting the ranks, Governor Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina asserted that "when the actual showdown comes, the Solid South will be together. As usual there is a lot of talk about disunity and dissatisfaction among the Democrats. Being in a war at the present time will not make them less unified but more unified."

May Be Drifting

Not so sure about this was Virginia's Governor Colgate W. Darden, who observed, "I believe there are unmistakable signs that the South is drifting away from its old moorings and that the next 10 years may bring a break-up."

Youthful Governor Prentice Cooper of Tennessee said with emphasis that any presidential candidate who would deny the South equality, particularly parity freight rates, "would find a solid bloc against him as far as the South is concerned."

High Shipping Costs

The Southern Governors' Conference long has hammered at a national rate structure which its members charge has throttled industry by imposing much higher costs for shipping out of the South than for shipping in.

Cooper said that states' powers yielded now in the all-important job of winning the world conflict must be reclaimed after peace comes.

Another young Southern chief executive, Ellis Arnall of Georgia, said he was "not interested in personalities" but he believed the South should present a solid front in its demands for "fair treatment."

Federal Funds Asked

He has been plugging for distribution of federal funds for social security, and other direct benefits to the people, on the basis of need instead of the basis of ability of the state to match cash.

From Florida, Governor Spessard Holland voiced a belief that the South had some differences with the New Deal but added:

"I think these can best be settled within the ranks of the liberal Democratic party."

Governor Sam Jones of Louisiana, who often has spoken of Democratic revolt in the South against New Dealism, declined to comment on the slant of Southern politics toward next year's campaign. So did Governor James Melville Broughton of North Carolina and Governor Paul Johnson of Mississippi.

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, June 9, 1933.

The first break in the heat wave that had gripped Ohio for a week came after 24 deaths had been recorded in the state from causes attributed to the high temperature. Today the mercury in Marion dropped to 85 after having reached a high of 97.

Walter Johnson was appointed manager of the Cleveland Indians. He succeeded Roger Peckinpaugh.

Forty-six candidates had filed for the August primary nominations in the city of Marion when the deadline arrived today. For mayor the Democratic entries were Harry W. Haberman, Harry S. Kelleher, C. A. Bolin and Paul Knappenberger, and W. C. Phillians, candidate for reelection, was the only Republican entry.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, June 9, 1923.

President Harding, speaking at a luncheon given in his honor by the Young Men's Republican club of Wilmington, Del., said: "There must be in the world a spirit of fraternity and unity. I think God intended it so, and I want America to give as much as she can to the world's restoration and tranquility."

Ku Klux Klansmen from various parts of Ohio and Indiana met here and staged a pageant and naturalization ceremony. More than 500 hooded members of the order participated in a street parade that preceded ceremonies held at the fairgrounds.

ARGENTINE "BEEF"

3 Momentous Months in Coal Dispute

Negotiations Began March 10; New Deadline June 20.

PRODUCTION of coal now has hung in the balance for three months while spokesmen for miners, operators and the government were locked in disagreement.

On March 10 the contract in the Appalachian bituminous fields, due to expire on March 31 after a two-year run, was opened to negotiation with a demand by United Mine Workers for $2 a day more, with a minimum of $8 a day in the northern field. The union demanded coverage of some 50,000 supervisory employes.

The following day operators rejected the union demand, estimating it would add $750,000,000 a year to production costs.

On March 20 operators rejected the union's proposal to continue talks to April 30, with increases retroactive to April 1, and to ask President Roosevelt for intervention. On March 26, John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, testified before the Truman committee that labor's no strike pledge immediately after Pearl Harbor was "not necessarily binding," inasmuch as the war labor board had banned all wage increases in the meantime.

On March 29 southern coal operators agreed to carry on under old contract. Northern and southern operators had split on the previous contract.

APRIL'S events opened on the second day of the month with the Truman committees report denouncing Mr. Lewis on the no-strike pledge statement and warned labor not to repeat "capitalistic arrogance."

On April 8 Mr. Lewis offered to "revise" his demands if operators guaranteed a six-day week throughout the year; the operators rejected the proposal.

Dr. Steelman, well known government mediator, urged operators to accept this proposal on April 13, but the operators again refused.

On April 21 and 22 the house of representatives voted to extend the Guffey bituminous coal act, which expired on April 26, for only four months. The senate limited extension to 30 days. The house accepted the senate plan, but the act later was extended to Aug. 26.

Negotiations collapsed on April 22, and Secretary of Labor Perkins certified the dispute to the war labor board. The following day President Roosevelt appointed Secretary of Interior Ickes solid fuels administrator.

On April 24 a board hearing was attended by the operators, but boycotted by United Mine Workers, which claimed the board had prejudged the case. The board ordered mining continued, but "walkouts" began.

On April 26, the board asked Mr. Lewis to stop the walkouts and named a special three-man panel on the controversy, after Mr. Lewis has refused to name a member to represent him.

The following day the union's policy committee denounced WLB, condemned operators for dealing with it and asked for renewal of direct negotiations. Agitation for portal-to-portal pay began.

On April 28, WLB turned over the dispute to President Roosevelt, and the following day the President promised Mr. Lewis he would use all powers of government to prevent interference with the war effort. He condemned strikes and ordered office of price administration to investigate prices in coal mine towns.

MAY'S record opened on the first day with the government taking over the mines, through authority bestowed on Secretary Ickes as solid fuels administrator. The President called on miners to work for the government, but strikes began in both hard and soft coal fields.

On May 2, the country was poised to hear the President make a radio speech on the crisis. A few minutes before Mr. Roosevelt came on the air, Mr. Lewis called a 15-day truce, saying he would negotiate with Secretary Ickes. The President promised coal would be mined, blamed union officers for the trouble, upheld WLB, but did not acknowledge the latest action of Mr. Lewis.

On the next day, following several public statements by the author, the senate took up a bill prepared by Sen. Connally of Texas, an administration stalwart, to enlarge presidential power to take over struck property, to penalize strikes and to strengthen WLB. Two days later the senate passed the bill, 63 to 10.

On May 4 Secretary Ickes said negotiations could be only between the union and operators, subject to WLB approval; his position was denounced by the union. Two days later WLB reopened panel hearings, naming its own associate counsel to represent the union. The following day Mr. Roosevelt said that miners, as government employes, had no right to strike.

On May 14 WLB ordered union and operators to resume talks. The operators consented, but Mr. Lewis refused to attend WLB hearings, claiming the board had been superseded by Secretary Ickes.

On May 17, Mr. Lewis extended the truce to May 31.

On May 21 the WLB panel issued a fact-finding report interpreted as supporting the union's portal-to-portal demand, which would amount to giving union most of the pay increase demanded at the outset of negotiations.

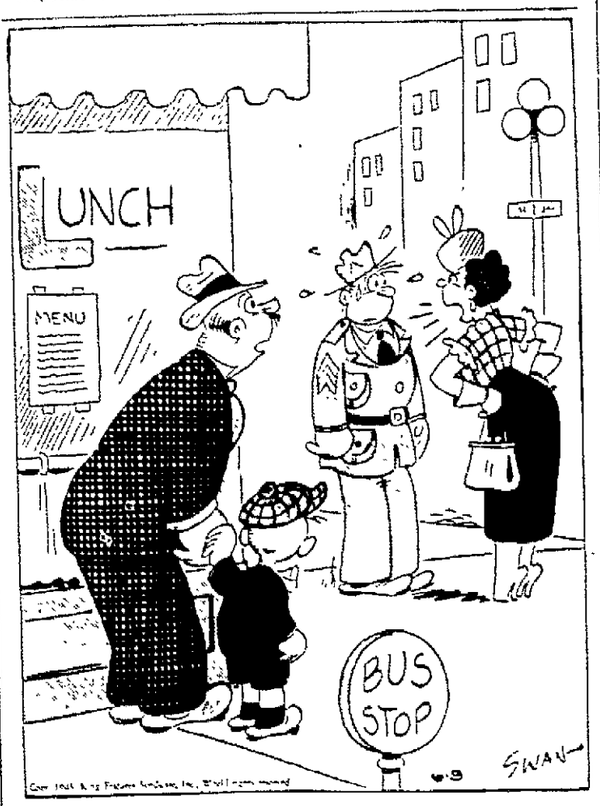
On May 25 the full WLB report was issued. It rejected the $2 pay increase (with labor members dissenting) and double time for Sundays, but supported minor wage demands. It recommended the six-day week demand should be considered by a body of experts and the portal-to-portal demand should await a pending judicial decision. Also on May 25 WLB ordered collective bargaining resumed, with both sides to report by June 9 on remaining issues. The following day negotiations between the union and operators were reopened.

ON June 1, negotiations again had failed and miners began to leave their work. The house military affairs committee added its own Smith bill to the Connally bill passed by the senate; Secretary Perkins, among others, criticized the bill. Operators rejected a temporary compromise on portal-to-portal pay, estimated to grant an additional $1.50 a day. Secretary Ickes ordered miners to return to their work and blamed certain operators equally with the union for the deadlock.

On June 2 WLB again certified the dispute to the President and ordered an end to negotiations while a strike was in progress. Mr. Lewis said the board's order was in violation of the labor relations act and said he was willing to continue negotiations. The house voted 211 to 163 to take up Connally-Smith bill.

On June 3, presidential action was imminent.

On June 4, Mr. Roosevelt asked miners to return to work on the following Monday, June 7, and spoke of work-or-fight orders in a press conference. Mr. Lewis ignoring reference to Mr. Roosevelt and castigating the war labor board, directed miners to return to work on June 7. The house passed an amended and stronger anti-strike bill than the senate's Connally bill by a vote of 231 to 141.



"A Sergeant, my boy, is a fellow who gives orders to everybody, but his wife!"

Lest We Forget

By DAMON RUNYON

Thousands of Heroes of 1918 Are Forgotten in Government Hospitals; Memory Is Shallow.

IN United States government hospitals are thousands of veterans of World war I, crippled many years as a result of wounds or disease incurred in that conflict.

Twenty-six years ago all these invalids were exactly like the millions of boys now in uniform. They were young and healthy and teeming with the spirit of patriotism. They were important figures of the nation. Their names were in newspaper headlines. The cheers of a public rang in their ears as they marched away to rest the proud legions of the kaiser.

They met a veritable hysteria of enthusiasm when they came home. Our statesmen, including our President, spoke to them and assured them that the country would never forget them.

Not a great many years afterward some of the veterans were selling apples in the street to get enough money to keep body and soul together. Not a great many years afterward they were being driven out of the capitals of their nation and treated like panhandlers because they had the temerity to demand readjusted compensations, generally known as the bonus.

They had been told they would come home to their old jobs. There were no jobs for many of them. The civilian population, tired of the war and resentful of the veterans, shoved them aside and paid no further attention to them—the same civilian population that had cheered the boys on their way to war. The incapacitated among the veterans went to hospitals, to be completely forgotten.

I HAVE asked you before, gentle reader, and I ask you again, how often have you visited a hospital to see these broken heroes of another era? I would like to ask you how often you sent a book, a flower, to them? I would like to ask you how often have you even thought of them?

How many persons do you know who have ever visited them or sent a token of remembrance to them? How many persons have you ever heard mention them? Of the thousands of women galloping around in uniforms and displaying the keenest interest in the young fellows now enroute to war, in their entertainment, in their canteens, how many can you name who ever lifted a finger in behalf of the veterans in the hospitals?

I see. Then please do not tell me that, lacking the definite legislation that so far is no forthcoming, things will be any different for the veterans of this war. I am told that I should not tell the service men of today what befell their predecessors because it might be harmful to the morale of the youngsters.

I say I should repeat the story to keep the public reminded of the nation's sins against the service men of '17-'18 until the people finally put the pressure on congress to take steps to insure the economic safety of the soldiers and sailors of today. They will be the veterans of tomorrow, and only too many of them will be among the new forgotten legion in the hospitals.

I HAVE seen the aftermath of two wars. I want at last to see one where peace does not make bums of fine young fellows because of the ingratitude of the nation. I want to see legislation enacted that will make certain that every man who wears a uniform in this war can look forward to a decent future. I will believe none of the many promises that are being made until I see something that means law.

I could tell you of a thousand promises that were made the service men of our wars by officials and politicians and never fulfilled. You see, all the promisers need do is stall off the war veterans until that part of the civilian population that did not go to war and resents those who did is augmented by a new generation that is bored by the problems of the veterans and readily agrees to the nullification of promises.

The time for friends of the service men to get anything done for them is while the war is in progress. That time is now. Let those eager promisers in Washington and elsewhere get something concrete on the books. If we wait until after the war, the veterans are goslings and if you do not believe it, consult any member of the American Legion.

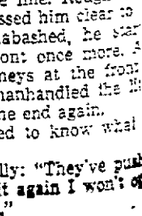
Fashion Field Day

By SPOON RIVER SAM

According to the ads in the papers, it's mighty important how "milady" looks in her Victory Garden.

They make it sound like crop prospects will be mighty poor if madame ain't dressed right.

Personally, I think this is carrying things too far. Fashion in the garden don't matter, so the scarecrow is decked out proper.



Them beans and spuds will grow just as good if the women wear overalls instead of a "chic outdoors ensemble," and maybe a heap better.

The style experts must figure the growing vegetables will draw vitamins by exposure in bright colors. On the other hand, them floppy sombreros they wear are so big they keep half the garden in the shade.

So I say if the Victory Gardens are going to become stomping grounds for fashion parades, the whole program is apt to go to seed.

So They Say

During this year we will double the size of our fleet. We are building merchant ships four times as fast as they are being sunk. We are girding ourselves not for a single attack on a single front, but for many attacks on many fronts. — War Mobilization Director James Byrnes.

The winning of the war abroad will be delayed with much greater loss of life until we can control our domestic affairs. We can not temporize any longer.—Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia.

He Was Sore

Buckeye Tavern, trade journal of the Ohio liquor industry, reports that in Cleveland recently a group of local citizens were standing in a long line waiting to get their liquor ration books from one of the state liquor stores. It was almost 1 p. m., fast time, the hour the store was to open.

Up from behind came a little guy, with the assurance little guys usually have, and was seeking toward the front of the line. Rough hands seized him. Rough hands passed him clear to the other end of the line. Unabashed, he started cheating his way to the front once more. But this time the big burly limeys at the front of the row were sore. They manhandled the little fellow, threw him back to the end again.

A cop came up, demanded to know what the rumpus was.

Said the little guy ruefully: "They've pushed me back twice. If they do it again I won't get the darned old store at all."

SENATE AWAITS NEW TAX BILL

Committee Ready To Start on Measure for Still Higher Levies.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9—Although Americans already are paying as heavily as the British Canadians, Chairman [illegible] Democrat of Georgia, of the senate finance committee today declared congress is ready to start work on a new tax bill as soon as President Roosevelt makes suggestions.

The president told his press conference in effect yesterday that the recently enacted pay-as-you-go income tax bill, with its withholding salary deductions levy, is inadequate to close an inflationary gap in the economic structure.

George indicated that congress probably will be asked, before it takes a summer recess, to devise additional taxes, possibly heavier excise taxes on cigarets, tobacco and liquor. England has boosted its excise levies on these articles, he said, and yet the British are continuing them at about the same rate as before.

Mr. Roosevelt did not rule out the possibility that, despite the success of the last war bond campaign, compulsory savings might be necessary as a means of closing the inflationary gap.

The president said he would like the pay-as-you-go bill in time to put the treasury to start collecting the 20 per cent withholding tax on July 1.

George said it seemed simply a matter of the question" to consider imposing higher income taxes until next year, although such taxes could take effect immediately after enactment.

"I think it would be very difficult to increase individual income tax rates without breaking the backs of many taxpayers whose income has not risen but who are paying more in the cost of their living," he said.

Including social security contributions, George estimated, Americans will pay more than $18,000,000,000 into the federal treasury in the next fiscal year. He estimated local and state taxes at some $11,000,000,000 more, and said he believed the total burden, all things considered, was as great if not greater than that borne by the British and Canadians.

BRITISH REPORT ON LAMPEDUSA ATTACK

Commando Raid Carried Out Without Loss.

By The Associated Press

VALLETTA, Malta, June 9—A British naval communique today announced that "light surface forces carried out a coast reconnaissance of the island of Lampedusa" Sunday night and "suffered no damage or casualties."

Two members of a landing party failed to return, however.

This was the brief communique:

"Our light surface forces carried out a coast reconnaissance of the island of Lampedusa June 6-7. They suffered no damage or casualties and only two of the landing party did not return."

This obviously was the same action described by axis communiques yesterday as a determined attempt by about five companies of British commandos to take Lampedusa, tiny desolate island 70 miles off the Tunisian coast and 80 miles south of Pantelleria.

The Italian communique yesterday said a landing attempt was repulsed and several of the landing party's boats sunk.

The Germans said the parts of the detachmnet which succeeded in landing were wiped out.

HOOVER FORECASTS LESS FOOD NEXT YEAR

Ex-President Advocates Nine-Point Program.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 9—Predicting that American cities will have less food next year, Herbert Hoover advocates a nine-point food control system with the secretary of agriculture as administrator.

The former president, who was World war 1 food administrator, said last night that his program offered the "only one course which will clear up this muddle of uncontrolled food prices, local famines, profiteering, black markets and stifled farm production."

Speaking before the American Farm Bureau Federation, he declared that "we will not starve" but if the European war ended within a year, America would have "no consequential food supplies with which to meet three or four hundred millions of starving people."

"Remedy for the 1943 harvest year is now too late, as the planting is mostly done," he said. "We must begin to build up the harvest of a year from now. We still have time to redeem the situation."

His program also included:

Increased farm manpower, machinery and the planting of "40 or 50 million more acres in 1944;"

Abolition of retail and wholesale price ceilings so that price fixing would begin "as near possible to the farmer;" simplication of rationing by "decreasing the number and variety of articles rationed," avoidance of subsidies which, he called, "declayed aggravation" which would not stop inflation, and establishment of a farmer war price committee and abandonment of "so-called parities."

Grange Services Set for Sunday

Plans have been completed for the annual countywide memorial services for members of the Granges whose deaths have occurred during the last year, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Claridon school. Rev. Russell Hoy of Coshocton, state Grange chaplain, will be the speaker and all Granges in the county will take part in the program. E. A. Williams, county deputy, will preside. Names for 14 deceased members of Granges throughout the county will be read.

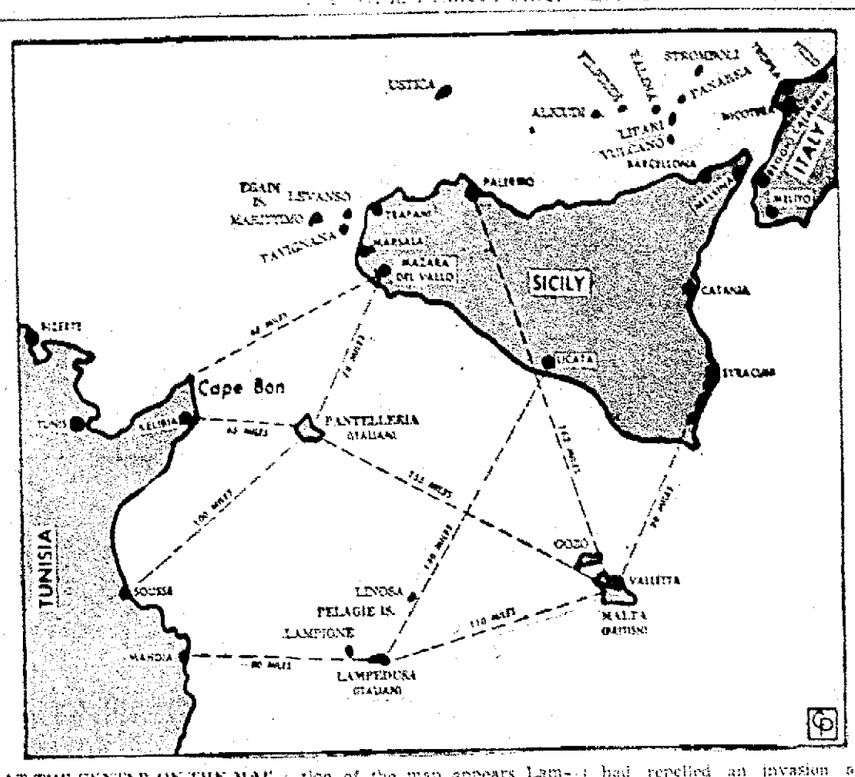
R. L. Hertzer To Run for Mayor of Bucyrus

BUCYRUS, June 9—R. L. Hertzer, former city service director, today announced his candidacy for mayor in the Democratic primary in August, the fourth Democrat to seek the office.

Hertzer is now serving as county relief director and also as commander of Bucyrus' civilian defense activities.

WAR WORKER SHOT

CINCINNATI, June 9—Herman Ross, 29-year-old warplant worker, died today of pistol wounds inflicted by Police Patrolman Bernard Creutzinger, 30, when, according to the latter's report, he attempted to halt a fight between Ross and another man. Ross was armed with a knife, Creutzinger said.



AT THE CENTER OF THE MAP above is shown the island of Pantelleria, where Italian defenders were reported today to have refused the allies' demand for surrender. In the lower section of the map appears Lampedusa, tiny prison island which figured in yesterday's news dispatches. Rome and Berlin dispatches reported that Italian forces stationed on the island had repelled an invasion attempt by Allied forces. This report was described by allied sources today as a commando raid in which there were no casualties.

FORTRESS MAKES 28 PASSES AT ENEMY

Only a Few Holes To Show for Heavy Fighting.

By The Associated Press

AN AMERICAN BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, June 9—After seven months of bigtime combat duty, the Flying Fortress "Hell's Angels" is still going strong with only a few patched-up flak punctures and a lone bullet hole as battle scars from 28 passes at Hitler's Europe.

This is a record unequalled by any sister Fortress in the European theater. Hell's Angels has had to plough through some of the thickest antiaircraft fire and has fended off Reichsmarshal Goering's yellownose fighters over such strongly-defended targets as Wilhelmshaven, Kiel, Bremen, Vamm, Vegesack, St. Nazaire, Lorient, Romilly and Paris.

In all 150,000 pounds of bombs have left her racks to churn up devastation in these and other targets.

Sometimes the bombers develop difficulties and have to turn back home before getting to their targets—but not once has this happened to "Hell's Angels."

All but one of her original crew have completed their operational missions and are now slated for other assignments, and every one of them have lavish praise for the ship which bears the insignia of a grinning, haloed, wing-sprouting cherub on roller skates with a big bomb flung over his shoulder.

Some other stations have dubbed "Hell's Angels" the "luckiest Fortress in the European theater of operations." That burns up the boys on this station. "Her flying crew and ground staff just know their onions," they say.

There have been only two casualties among all the men who have flown with "Hell's Angels"—they were lost while flying as substitute crew members in other bombers.

The loneliest man on this station is First Lieut. Ripley W. Joy, 27, of San Francisco, co-pilot of "Hell's Angels," whose buddies transferred yesterday to another station, presumably in preparation for going to the United States. Joy needs five more missions to complete his combat chores.

Joy had plenty of good things to say about the flying crew and also for the ground crew of "Hell's Angels." The latter included Sergeant Fabian F. Folmer, Mansfield, O., crew chief.

160 COMPANIES OF WAACS NOW ON DUTY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 9 — There are 160 field companies of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps now on active duty in army posts and air bases in the United States and overseas, Major Harold A. Edlund, WAAC recruiting director, disclosed last night.

Arriving here from Washington to assist in a concerted recruiting drive, Major Edlund declared "within six months for a few, and less than that for others, these WAAC field companies have made an impressive record for themselves."

He added that only four companies have been in the field for as much as six months, and that within the last month 126 of the total 160 compaies have gone to army posts.

Mark St. School Wins Gray-Y Softball Title

Mark Street school won the 1943 Gra-Y softball championship on the Central Junior High school diamond last week with a 7 to 6 win over Forest Lawn.

The Market Street team went through the tournament with three victories and no defeats. The titlists defeated Olney in a semi-final contest, 6 to 5. Forest Lawn gained the final round with a lopsided 22 to 3 win over Greenwood. Score by innings for the championship game:

Batteries—Mark, Rockhold and Seiter, Forest Lawn, Lundquist and Beveridge.

Science Some Day May Find Reason for Zoot Suits

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, June 9—Anthropologists ultimately may dope out the cultural quirk that nurtured the blossoming zoot suit, with its reat pleat, drape shape and stuff cuff—badge of street gangs engaged in recent clashes with service men.

But for the conservative and puzzled citizen of today here is a theory or two:

Hollywood film studio research authorities say they believe the impetus toward the extreme garb sprang from the full coat of Prince Albert type and trousers of peg top design that Clark Gable wore in "Gone With the Wind."

The current fad started, they add, in Harlem, and spread to other sections of the country.

Another theory is that jitterbugs inspired tailoring of tight cuffs because wide-bottom trousers were a definited trip-and-fracture hazard in their rug cutting.

In some sections of Los Angeles zoot suit adherents effect a broad-brimmed hat with a colored feather in the band. This branch also favors out-size shoes with extra-thick soles.

The origin of the long watch chain looping almost to the ankles is still something of a mystery.

Advocates of this garish garb were relatively quiet last night after four nights of disturbances, in which service men unfrocked at least 50.

Downtown streets, heavily patrolled by civil police, navy shore patrolmen and military police, were virtually free of zooters—and sailors.

One sailor was beaten last night, and among zoot suiters arrested was one carrying a 16-inch butcher knife.

Police say youths of Mexican ancestry predominate among the zoot suit wearers who have figured in sluggings and robberies for months.

war with a clear conscience. We wanted nothing from other nations but peace and good will. We sacrificed much to achieve what we hoped was lasting peace. Although a great and growing sea power, we laid our strength upon the block after the last war. We voluntarily scrapped 800,000 tons of the best fighting ships built or building in the illusory hope that in disarmament there was security and peace.

"We realize now what a mistake that was * * *," Knox continued. "The people of this country do not intend to scrap again the fleet that we are building."

Knox, asserting that U. S. industry was turning out the best combat planes in the world, paid tribute to the growing importance of air power.

Thus far in the three months controversy, Lewis has consistently refused to recognize the board's jurisdiction, and has declined to appear at any of its hearings.

Negotiations thus far were described by both parties last night as "farcical."

Lewis strode from the parley yesterday with an assertion it was "a farcical proceeding in every way." He said the operators, still refusing to yield to his $2 a day pay increase for each miner, were "sullen and morose" about the whole proposal. He said their attitude was "an insult to the coal miners and the national interest."

Edward R. Burke, president of the Southern Appalachian Operators, agreed with Lewis that the conferences were "a farcical procedure" adding though that Lewis made it so.

LEGION POST MAKES BOYS' STATE CHOICE

Thos. McGinnis To Represent Marion Veterans' Group.

Thomas McGinnis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan T. McGinnis of 480 South State street, has been selected to represent Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162 of the American Legion at the annual Boys' State sessions in Columbus June 12-20. He will be a senior at Harding High school next year and is one of four sons of Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis. The other three McGinnis youths, Eugene, Warren and John, are in the armed forces.

Announcement of the appointment was made at a meeting of the post in the Dugout on South Vine street last night.

Post Commander A. J. Dripps officiated for draping of the Legion charter in honor of Joseph Fazio, a Legion member who died recently.

Plans for a meeting of all Marion county Legion groups Sunday, May 13 at the Dugout were announced. Legislation under consideration by any of the county groups is to be presented at this time so that formal action may be taken at the district conference to be held in the next few weeks at Columbus.

The general public has been invited to attend a program of motion pictures to be shown by Bernard W. Sweeney of Columbus at the Dugout June 22 at 9 p. m. The pictures are scenes from the Holy lands and were taken while Mr. Sweeney was employed with an aircraft concern in northern Africa.

Legion members were instructed at last night's meeting to assemble at the North Main street school Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock preparatory to marching to radio station WMRN where a flag presentation will be made to the station by Veterans Post No. 3313, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

high command reported an apparently big-scale landing attempt by Soviet troops on the east coast of the Sea of Azov, where the Red armies have been driving to cut off the German "escape route" from the Caucasus across Kerch strait to the Crimea.

47 Boats Reported Sunk

A Nazi communique said German planes sank 47 Russian landing boats north of Kerch strait yesterday, but did not indicate how many others might have gained the shore.

Once again, the German command reported a lull along the entire 1,500-mile battle line, while Soviet headquarters declared that two Nazi "feeler" thrusts—near Sevsk, about midway between Moscow and Rostov, and on the Donets river front below Kharkov—were thrown back.

The Soviet mid-day communique ignored Berlin propaganda reports of a great German victory in the Caucasus in which 550,000 Soviet troops were purportedly killed in four major battles—nor did the Hitler command mention any such victory in today's war bulletin.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 9 — A British Press association military writer said today "there is a possibility that a landing already has been made" on Pantelleria island in the Mediterranean, but there was no basis whatever in London from official or other sources to support his speculation.

The writer said the garrison on the island, midway between Tunisia and Sicily, "has been called upon to surrender so as to save the civil population from further attacks."

MARION BROTHERS TAKEN TO KENTUCKY

Accused of Theft; One Sought as Jail Breaker.

Morris Vanhoose, 19, and Alvin Vanhoose, 17, were taken back to Paintsville, Ky., today by Constable James Mackenzie and Justice of the Peace Randall Daniels from Paintsville. There the boys will face a grand larceny charge in connection with stealing a cow there some time ago, Constable Mackenzie said.

Morris Vanhoose faces another charge—breaking jail on May 31, after having been there for four months. When asked how he escaped, Vanhoose said he sawed the bars off the window and climbed out. His wife had smuggled the hacksaws to him through the bars of the window, and it took him about two hours to free himself, he told officers.

The older boy, Morris, was arrested by city police Sunday afternoon on investigation concerning the reported escape. After a phone conversation with Paintsville authorities, verifying the report, police held Vanhoose in the county jail and his brother at the detention home. His brother, Alvin, was arrested after police were informed by Paintsville authorities yesterday that he also was wanted.

The boys lived at 203 Sharp street while in Marion.

College To Aid Wounded Regain Ability To Talk

By International News Service

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Wounded service men may soon go to Pennsylvania State College.

Penn State has been selected as a center for speech training in the government's rehabilitation program, according to Dr. Herbert Koepp-Baker, associate professor of speech.

The college will train speech specialists for service in hospitals and will also conduct classes for men with facial injuries who have to learn how to speak all over again.

Booby mines and anti-personnel bombs are raising the casualty list with head injuries. Although plastic surgery can satisfactorily repair the wounds in a large majority of cases, these men cannot earn a living until they have been rehabilitated socially as well as physically.

Rouge and lipstick no longer depend upon the tiny cochineal for color. These little insects, of which it took 70,000 to a pound, were obtained from foreign countries but have now been replaced by coal-tar dyes for tints.

Churchill Speaks Cheering Word on Submarine Menace

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Outstanding in British Prime Minister Churchill's speech in the house of commons yesterday was his declaration of confidence that "the U-boat war will not stand between the United Nations and their final victory."

Hitler's unrestricted submarine campaign has been one of the gravest menaces the allies have had to face. He has crowded its dangerously hard. Huge quantities of essential munitions have been sunk at a time when we needed every ounce of striking power we could mass on the hard-pressed battle fronts.

Now Mr. Churchill tells us that May was the most successful month the allies have had in their warfare against the submersibles, and the first week of June "is the best ever." Last month the combined building "exceeded our losses by more than three to one," and "for the first time our killings of U-boats substantially outnumbered the U-boat output."

U-Boat Back Broken?

The recent record may mean that at long last the allies have broken the back of the submarine menace. If so it will permit a great speeding up of United Nations operations in all theaters.

The increase in the Anglo-American fleet of cargo ships fits in with those "amphibious operations of a peculiar complexity and hazard on a large scale" which Mr. Churchill says "are approaching." Lack of transport has been one of the allied problems, and of course huge numbers of ships are essential for any major water-borne invasion.

The prime minister remarked that "the Germans seem to be staking their hopes on the U-boat war." As a matter of fact, Nazi spokesmen in Berlin have been bolstering the courage of the German people with the promise that the submarine drive would bring the allies to their knees. Continuing his comment Churchill made this interesting observation:

"If it should be made clear that this hope has failed, then they may be seriously disappointed and they are a people who, when seriously disappointed, do not always find resources to confront an approaching disaster, once their reason tells them that this is inevitable. I make that observation in passing. Do not let us build on such deductions."

Something To Hope For

Of course it would be folly to bank on German morale collapsing, as it did in the last war. Still, Mr. Churchill has pointed to a characteristic of the Germans. Six months ago General Montgomery made a similar remark to me at the height of his offensive against Rommel.

"The German is a good soldier and will fight," said the famous general, "though I believe it is true that once you get him down he cracks up."

We had proof of this estimate in the Tunisian collapse. When the Germans found that they were going to be beaten in the long run, they gave up. In short, the German is "practical minded" and isn't inclined to sacrifice his life on a hopeless quest, as does his Japanese ally.

ALLIES HIT JAPS AT LONG DISTANCE

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, June 9—The Japanese, who seldom have been disturbed in the island stepping stones they seized southeast of Singapore leading toward Australia, were given their second grim hint in 40 days of things to come by far-ranging Liberator bombers yesterday.

These Liberators, flying daringly in daylight beyond the range of escorting fighters, carried 500-pound bombs to the harbor of Waingapoe on the north coast of Soemba Island in the lesser Sundra group, more than 900 miles west of Darwin.

Through a curtain of anti-aircraft fire thrown up by batteries on ship and shore, the big four-engined American raiders roared to damage a 5,000-ton cargo ship, the biggest one in the harbor. On May 29, other Liberators risked the same long flight to bomb Waingapoe, two of them flying even further west to strike at the island of Lombok.

see the red flashes as the shells left the guns.

"I'd hate to be anyone on the island today. The flak they threw up was very light."

It was so clear that the fliers could see Italy and Sicily and they said they were inclined to agree with Keith that they should have been charged admission to see the naval action below them on the mirror-smooth sea.

"It was like watching a battle in a vacuum because the roar of our motors kept us from hearing anything," said Lieut. Mark C. Hagerty of Hollywood, Calif.

"The water was very blue and the wakes of the ships very white. We could see white splashes all around the ships from shells fired by axis coastal defense batteries but they didn't get a single hit that we noticed."

Lieut. Robert B. Riley of Auburn, Calif., said he felt the fliers had been a help to the navy in allowing it to get close to the shore "because we have been pounding away those fortifications" since the big air assault was launched last month.

SAMUEL B. FOSTER CLAIMED BY DEATH

Funeral Rites To Take Place Saturday.

Boy, how fed up I used to get with myself! I just wasn't any good.

I used to use medicinal laxatives. But my constipation came back just the same. Then I found out why—it was due to lack of "bulk" in my diet!

So — I began eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly and drinking plenty of water. That swell cereal got right at the cause of my constipation and corrected it! It helped me "Join the Regulars!" Maybe it could help you, too. Ask for it at your grocer's today. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek, Michigan.

15-Night Harness Racing Program Opens Thursday

Marion, long a by-word in the harness racing field because of the presence here of one of the country's two relay mare farming plants, actually becomes the nub of the nation's spring harness program this year.

The Marion meet, 15 nights of Little Grand Circuit racing starting Thursday night and continuing through June 26, is the first meeting in Ohio, one of the first north of the Mason-Dixon line and definitely the initial long meeting of the season anywhere.

Coming first as it does, the Marion meeting has attracted a greater number of horses than ever before, many quality trotters and pacers. With the better animals, naturally, come the better known trainers and drivers. To handle races in which the elite of the sport are performing the best of officials had to be employed. The quartet working the Marion meet headed by Starling Judge Steve Phillips of Erie, Pa., formerly of Xenia, and Joseph M. McGraw of Washington, Pa., are the finest obtainable.

In other words the material on hand, including horse flesh and the human machine, points to one of the biggest race meetings in the history of Marion county.

Over the week-end and Monday and Tuesday of this week saw the fairground house colony completely occupied. A few of the 15 were drifting daily on the fairground here around the layout last Thursday and yesterday afternoon a new count made by Judge Joe McGraw showed that 185 animals were on the grounds. An additional 35 expected later last night plus a large number due to arrive today and tomorrow will boost this figure to nearer the 250 mark. Race Secretary Frank M. Foster yesterday said that a considerable number would probably not arrive until early next week when stake racing is scheduled to begin.

JOSEPH M. McGRAW

Directing the training activities of the large field already on hand are 24 leading drivers. They are Carl Hayhell of Tuscarawas, S. C., Ernest Smith of Washington C. H., R. C. Meaker of Canton, Gabe Cartnell of Hanover, John Mallaby of Harrington, Del., Everett Osborn of Wichita, Kan., Bob Plaxico of Canton, W. B. Taylor of Santa Maria, Calif., Steve Benefield of Denver, Colo., Jack Brown of Allentown, Pa., Harry Craig of Cairo, N. Y., Mark Kyler of Hamburg, N. Y., Benny Sturgeon of Bellefontaine, Hugh Bell of Marion, Eddie Dunwoody of Newark, Earl Rousn of Canton, E. D. McQuown of Xenia, Ray Seeley of Warren, Harry Reeves of Sylvania, E. L. Burrey of New London, Pat Dailey of Fremont, William H. Roush of Athens, Herman Tyron of Pinehurst, N. C., Louis Huber of Cincinnati, Denny Shell of Shelbyville, Ind., and Byron Perry of Urbana.

Since they have horses nominated in one or more of the 10 stake events highlighting the three-week card you can add to the above list Charles Mabrey of New Castle, Pa., E. A. Pease of Hamburg, N. Y., Jake Mahoney of Shelbyville, Ind., Harry Short of Washington C. H., J. R. Owens of Rushville, Clint Lightnill of Ottawa, George

DR. H. M. PARSHALL

Briggs of Mason, Mich., Eddie Havens of Pinehurst, N. C., Dr. [illegible] Marshall of Urbana, H. R. Layman of Washington C. H., [illegible] Beesley of Eldorado, Ill., Harry Goodhart of Reading, Pa., [illegible] Smart of Delaware, Harry C. Fitzpatrick of Charleston, Ill., [illegible] Winn of Northville, Mich., Charles Lacey of Butler, Pa., Dr. [illegible] Nissen of London, Harry Tallman of Urbana, Roy Riggle of Jeffersonville, Tom Carlock of Greenville, Clay Hess of Greenville, [illegible] Wright of Greenville, Herman Ross of Dayton, William Evers of [illegible] ton and Ed Rickabaugh of Wooster.

First of the four officials to arrive was Judge McGraw, who flew Monday from his home in Washington, Pa. He was followed by Harvey H. Hartman of Quakertown, Pa., and Wayne Ogden of Pinehurst, N. C., was third. Starter Steve Phillips was not expected until today.

While at the fairground track was speeded up yesterday as the time approached. C. H. Hayes of Columbus and a group of workers completed installation of the concession stand underneath the grandstand while George Reverman and a corps of workers busied themselves in setting up the mutuel plant. Reverman's men installed the large probable odds board yesterday afternoon.

While this work was being handled speedily Harry Hagler and Ken a completed the installation of the fairground public address system.

Biggest Deal in Baseball!

Stars on Auction Block Bring $124,000,000—but It's All in War Bonds.

By SID FEDER
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 9 — There's obviously a lot of the elephant in the sports fan in general and the baseball bug in particular, even when it hits him where he feels it most—in the B.R.

The B.R., naturally, is the bankroll, and the rubber band was peeled all the way off it yesterday as the faithful of all shapes and sizes—from corporations to just plain Gus—got together to "bid in" their favorite New York and Brooklyn ball players for just under $124,000,000 in the biggest one-day bond sale super-duper the treasury department has ever known.

Old Boys Go Best

The fellows who are over the peak now, but who'll always be the big guys to Gus Fan, got the hottest play in this "sale."

About 1,500 of the boys were on hand for the bond-selling stunt in which the successful bidder not only put cash on the line for the original "investment," but pledged the "upkeep" in bonds for his hero's performance the rest of the season.

And up on the block, getting the most attention as "Auctioneer" Jimmy Walker worked, were the three top guys—King Carl Hubbell, Belting Bill Dickey and Dixie the Dasher Walker.

They were the "favorites" of their respective teams. Dixie, the "people's choice" in Brooklyn in spite of years of the front office "brush-off," drew the top bid of the day—$11,250,000—from the Brooklyn club, a social organization.

And Hubbell "went" for $3,000,000 after the representative of the Esso Marketers, which had already oversubscribed its scheduled allotment, "stalled" the bidding for a few minutes to call his home office and get an "okay" to go even higher for Old King Carl.

"Syndicate" Bids

About the neatest gesture of all was a bid for $2,000,000, by a group who called themselves the "Bronx Syndicate," in order to get Dickey. It turned out they were just neighbors of Yankee Stadium.

Then there was the $3,000,000 bid for Fat Freddy Fitzsimmons, the best-loved Dodger of them all, by Brooklyn Boro President John Cashmore, himself. Fat Freddy not only is just about to call it a career, but he wasn't even on the list of players to be auctioned.

All told, 37 players were "bid in"—a dozen each from the Yanks and Giants and 13 from the Bums (Pat Freddie is the extra). For each single a player makes the rest of the season, his sponsor agreed to buy a $2,500 bond; for each double a $5,000; for each triple, $7,500 and for a homer, $10,000. If he's a pitcher, a win calls for a $35,000 subscription and a shut-out for $50,000.

GENEVA, O., June 9—Anton Christoforidis, former National Boxing Association light heavyweight champion, has been ordered to report for induction into the armed forces June 18.

Big Shot Is Likely To Be Just That In Little Grand Circuit Races Here

Big Shot, just as the name implies, is quite likely to be a big shot at the Little Grand Circuit race meeting which gets under way tomorrow night under the arcs at the Marion county fairground track. Big Shot, owned by A. L. Derby of Wichita, Kan., is the biggest horse, trotter or pacer, on the local grounds. He stands 17.2 hands high which makes him a giant among horses.

Now 7 years old, Big Shot was one of the standouts of Everett Osborn's crack stable last year, winning races at Hamburg, Saratoga and Westbury and nearly always giving a good account of himself anytime Osborn sent him to the post. He will be started here several times before Osborn and his stable of 14 head move onto North Randall to battle for the $140,000 offered there in a 23-day meeting.

Osborn injured his back in unloading some tack here last week and he has been bent over and has not been feeling too well. But he's in the sulky every day and jogging just as many miles as if he were in the pink.

* * *

Another cripple at the fairgrounds is Benny Sturgeon, the veteran Bellefontaine jockey who suffered a broken leg in a sulky crack-up six weeks ago. Benny, who is on crutches, fears that he will have to undergo another operation as the bone is not healing properly.

Joe McGraw, the presiding judge from Washington, Pa., who has been in the stands at Ohio races for many years, was the busiest man on the fair grounds yesterday getting the names of all the trotters and pacers and the classes to which they are eligible. Joe looks for the Marion meeting to be one of the best of the year. He was assisted by Harvey Hartman of Quakertown, Pa., and Wayne Groves of Pinehurst, N. C., associate judges.

* * *

Gabe Cartnell of Hanover, O., has a quartet of horses which appear to be ready. Gabe has a sandy track in Hanover and they have not missed a day's work there in over a month.

In January of this year Tom Hogan, president of the Yellow Cab Taxi Co. of Chicago said he was all through with the horse game. This was after Myrtle Scott and Senator Baker were burned to death in their stalls at Van Wert, O. But in April Tom felt the urge again and bought Whiz, Volo Elworthy and Miss Volo Guy, all pacers, and he's as happy as a robin in the springtime around the barn on the East side of the track. Naturally, Tom, has his stable trimmed in yellow because he made his fortune from the Yellow Cab Taxi field.

Bill Taylor of Santa Maria, Calif., journeyed the longest distance to get to the Marion track. He came nearly 3,000 miles. The half dozen head he will campaign here are owned by James G. Eddy of Seattle, Wash.

Charles H. Bowen of Columbus, O., has a snappy trotter in Charming Sister, 2:09, and a speedy trotter in The Walnut Abbe, 2:06, that are apt to make good showings here. Walnut Abbe won 5 races last year while Charming Sister stepped down in front three times.

Harry Craig, former driver for the late Walter Cox, is not any stranger to the Marion track. He trained here in 1931. Now he trains and drives for J. J. Hoy, a beer distributor of Catskill, N. Y. Craig's truck and tack are a bright red while Harry's colors are red and yellow. Harry has Peter Aubrey, pacer and Mountain Maid and Crestlawn Mc, trotters.

Herman Tyson of Pinehurst, N. C., had 17 head in his barn three weeks ago and just before he came to Marion cut down the stable to six but he thinks he has some good ones among the lot. There are a number of owners and trainers who don't like to drive under the lights and Tyson is one of these. Therefore, Tyson will not be seen in action here and will hire another driver to pilot his horses.

Coca-Cola Edges Commercial Steel and Huber Defeats Universal Cooler

Coca-Cola edged Commercial Steel 9 to 8 at Lincoln park and Huber defeated Universal Cooler 6 to 5 on a home run by Pitcher Millisor at Garfield park in Industrial - Commercial softball league games last night.

Both Huber and Universal made eight hits but the former bunched their safeties to tally one more run. Huber jumped to a 2 to 1 lead in the first inning and racked up 3 more in the bottom half of the third to stretch their margin to 5 to 1. However, Universal's determined outfit was not to be denied and rallied in the top half of the fourth with four runs on five hits to tie up the game.

In the sixth inning neither team was able to score. Universal was also scoreless in their half of the seventh but Harold "Fat" Millisor, veteran Huber hurler, blasted a four bagger in the last half of the final canto to win his own contest.

Coca-Cola's squad could get only six hits off the offerings of Commercial pitcher Millington but loose playing by the Steelers accounted for their downfall. Millington himself issued six walks, which together with five Commercial errors spelled defeat for them. The soft-drinkers, however, were no team of Hal Chases either for they had the same number of miscues as their industrial league opponents. Coke hurler Caprino gave out four walks and could strike out nary a man. Millington fanned only one Coke batsman.

The first two innings saw seven of the nine Coke runs cross the plate, four coming in the first three in the second. Two free walks and two hits by the beverage batters accounted for the four markers. Coke actually made no hits in the second stanza, four errors on the part of Commercial fielders practically making the three runs a gift.

Score by innings:

		R.	H.	E.
Uni'sal Cooler	100 040 0—5	8	0
Huber	203 000 1—6	8	3

Batteries: Universal Cooler—Pa. Everly and Dillinger; Huber—Millisor and Anderson.

		R.	H.	E.

West Coast Football Prospects Look Fairly Bright—Teams Have Some Men

(This is another of a series dealing with the prospects for intercollegiate football this fall)

By RUSS NEWLAND
AP Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9—College football will be played in the far west next fall, save for a national emergency, but the quality, quantity and whether it will even approach the "big business" aspect of the past is indefinite.

Discussed but yet to be acted upon is the possible geographical partition of the ten-school Pacific coast conference, one of the major leagues in the country's gridiron activity.

This problem will be threshed out next Monday and Tuesday at the conference meeting in San Francisco. Graduate managers of the four California universities—California, Southern California, Stanford and California at Los Angeles — have proposed the North-South division. The northern schools oppose the idea, mainly from a financial standpoint.

Big Money in South

The important money games, with few exceptions, take place in the southern end of the circuit. If the split is conceived, the four California members plan a home and home series with each other, the California-Stanford classic excepted, and would play out their schedule with strong independent colleges and service teams.

The theory is that transportation difficulties will be reduced considerably. This is disputed by the northern schools who point out that while the mileage north is slightly greater than south, either trip entails an overnight ride.

There will be some playing talent at practically every school. How much depends on the extent of war service calls before September.

The universities of Southern California, California and Washington appear to be in the most favorable spots — designated for Navy training programs. Washington, for instance, expects 1,300 men from this windfall. Southern California has the nucleus for an outstanding team. First stringers from last year's squad expected to be on hand include halfbacks Mickey McArdle, Howard Callanan and Johnny Evans; Ralph Heywood, end, and Dick Jamison, tackle. They're Marine reserves, and have chances to finish.

Washington Halfbacks

Washington's Navy set-up brings crack halfbacks Sam Robinson and Bob Erickson into the picture along with three other 1942 regulars and promising reserves. California had a spring turnout of 75-100.

The western Rose Bowl representative of last New Year's day, University of California at Los Angeles, is practically certain of George Phillips, fullback with 4-F draft classification, and two other first string men. Oregon State college is counting on one returning letterman and the use of 17-year-olds. Oregon likewise has a veteran letterman, Bob Koch, in the Navy specialist class, and a 17-year-old tackle.

Stanford's outlook is bleak, with a 4-F fullback and a 17-year-old, both newcomers, as the only certainties. Things are blacker at Washington State college, where one 4-F was on hand at the last check, and still darker at the Universities of Idaho and Montana, where apparently it is now impossible to flush out a whole, able bodied player, Montana, in fact, hasn't even a coach.

Three Losing Streaks Ended in Association

By The Associated Press

Three losing streaks came to an end in the American association last night.

The Columbus Red Birds defeated St. Paul 7 to 1 for the Birds' first triumph in their last five starts. The Toledo Mud Hens thumped Minneapolis 11 to 3 to interrupt a three-game string of defeats, and Indianapolis, which had lost three straight, bumped the Milwaukee Brewers 5 to 2 to widen the Indians' league lead.

The Indians' triumph also shattered a five-game winning splurge that had carried the Brewers into second place in the loop standings.

Stellar pitching helped Columbus shake off its losing habit while heavy stickwork provided the answer for the Mud Hens. Pitcher Jack Creel of the Red Birds turned in a six-hit job as the Ohioans copped their first game of the series from the Saints. Toledo's Phil Weintraub whammed out a home run, double and single to drive in five runs and start the Mud Hens off right again.

The Kansas City Blues won a 15-inning contest from Louisville, 8 to 7, and left last place in the standings to their beaten rivals.

JOHNNY'S LIGHTER NOW

MONTREAL — Pvt. Johnny Greco, Canada's lightweight title hope, is practically a featherweight now. He had his tonsils and adenoids removed recently.

WRESTLES CARONE THURSDAY

Marion wrestling fans are in for a big time at the armory Thursday night when Promoter Fishbaugh presents one of the best cards of the summer season. For the two-hour main event Rufus Jones, well known New York colored star meets Fred Carone of Boston. This should prove to be one of the roughest and toughest matches ever seen at the armory.

The one-hour semi-final brings back Rene LaBell, well liked Canadian who has been appearing in main events. He will try to unmask the Purple Phantom. A two-fall win over the Phantom and he will take his mask off.

The one-fall opener at 8:30 also has a lot of interest for it is between Carl Von Lehman and Soldier Thomas. Advance ticket sale can be made by calling Markert & Lewis Cigar store. Get your layaways early.

CLEVELAND'S TITLE HOPES ARE QUESTION AS ACTION RESUMES

Major Leagues Return to Wars After Layoff of Two Days.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

One of the questions to be taken up for settlement as the major leagues swing back into action today is whether the Cleveland Indians can become contenders in the American League again now that they are back on their own reservation.

The Indians never have been much of a threat while travelling and their recent invasion of the east was particularly disastrous.

They had moved into first place on May 23 to climax a successful home stand and then they proceeded to lose 11 out of 16 games on the road to tumble into sixth place. It was the biggest fall any of the major league clubs took in the recent intersectional competition.

Now the schedule is going to slope in favor of the Tribe. Of the next 36 games for the Indians, 27 of them will be played in Cleveland.

The Indians are not trusting entirely in this, however, for they have reached into the minor leagues in the last few days in an effort to strengthen the club—getting First Baseman Mike Rocco from Buffalo for Otto Denning and Rookie Eddie Turchin and buying outfielder Pat Seerey from Wilkes-Barre for reserve duty. The latter move was necessary by an injury to Hank Edwards.

Cleveland's first series at home will be five games with the staggering St. Louis Browns. Jim Bagby was booked to pitch for the Indians.

Besides St. Louis at Cleveland, today's resumption of activities in the majors calls for Chicago at Detroit in a twilight affair and Washington at Boston in the American league as well as Boston at Brooklyn (twilight). Philadelphia at New York and Pittsburgh at St. Louis in the National league.

Bivins Keeps Duration Title

Cleveland Light Heavyweight Delivers Kayoe Punch to Marshall in Thirteenth.

By LARRY SMITH
AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND, June 9—Jimmy Bivins' left eye was closed today but he had a firm grasp on his duration light heavyweight championship.

Lloyd Marshall of California presumed to lift the crown from Cleveland Jimmy's head last night and took the full count in the 13th heat.

A sneak right belted James and his dignity to the canvas for a two-count in the seventh and aroused Bivins who usually exerts his talents just enough to win.

The title-holder pulled up his ring trousers and dropped the California Negro for counts of nine in the ninth and six in the 12th before delivering the payoff punch.

The bout might have ended one round sooner but the bell interrupted referee Jackie Davis' enumerating in the 12th.

Marshall, at 164, spotted the Cleveland Negro 10 pounds and wasn't too far behind at the end of six stanzas—but that seventh-round right stirred an easy-going Bivins.

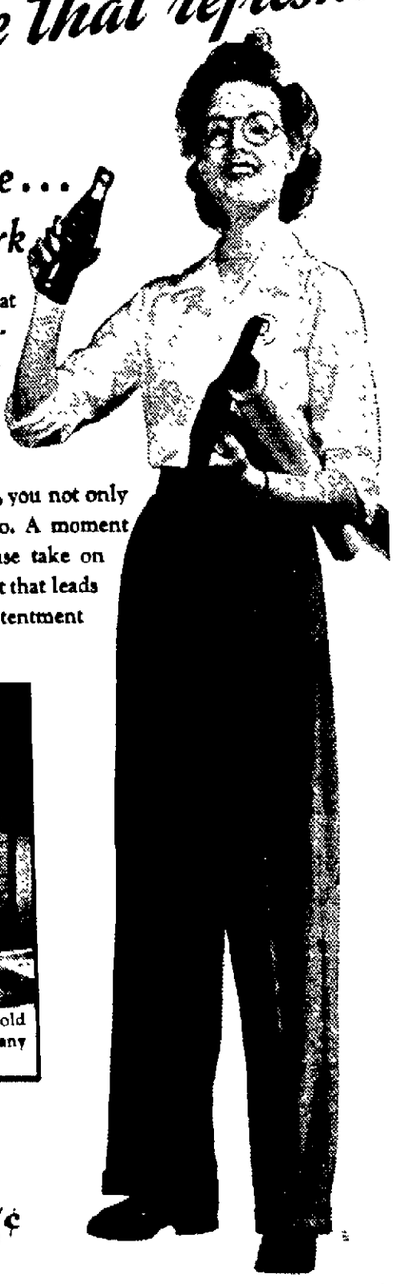
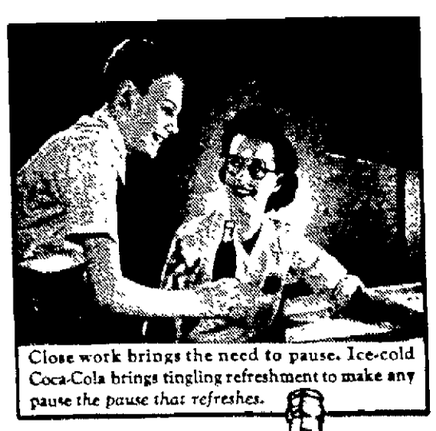
The rest-pause that refreshes.

Welcome in peace... more welcome in war work

WAR plant managers will tell you that anything that contributes to contented workers makes better workers. In plant after plant it has been found that a rest-pause breaks monotony, lessens tiredness and tension.

When you add refreshment to a rest-pause, you not only have a pause that rests, but refreshes, too. A moment for ice-cold Coca-Cola makes a rest-pause take on more meaning... promoting contentment that leads to more work and better work. Yes, contentment comes when you connect with a Coke.





Close work brings the need to pause. Ice-cold Coca-Cola brings tingling refreshment to make any pause the pause that refreshes.

Drink Coca-Cola Delicious and Refreshing 5¢

The best is always the better buy!

Letters from plant managers from coast to coast emphasize that the little moment for an ice-cold Coca-Cola means a lot to workers in war plants. It's a refreshing moment on the sunny side of things... a way to turn to refreshment without turning from work.

CITY HOSPITAL WORK STARTS

Preparation of Site for Addition Gets Under Way.

Clearing away of bushes, small trees and moving of telephone poles was expected to be completed sometime this week as workmen of the Kent Brothers Construction Co. of Columbus pushed preliminary work preparatory to starting construction on the T-shaped frame addition to the Marion City hospital.

On Monday a half dozen men were working at the site of the addition, which is a vacant lot immediately west of the present hospital. This force was doubled Tuesday and steady increases in the working force are expected as the construction stage nears.

One of the principal accomplishments of the first two days was establishment of center lines for both sections of the T-shaped structure.

A medium-sized bulldozer was brought here Monday from the firm's general yard at Columbus and this machine was used in clearing off small trees. A steam shovel was moved in yesterday and excavation was expected to start in the next few days.

In charge of work being done by the general contractor is E. R. Evans, superintendent of construction.

Charles W. Oborn, a Marion architect and an associate of the Thomas D. McLaughlin & Associates architectural firm of Lima is in charge of the project. During the preliminary stages Mr. Oborn will visit the site twice a day to check progress. During certain phases of the construction it will be necessary for him to be on hand at all times. In addition to his regular duties he expects to keep progress and work records and may also present periodical reports to city council.

Ringer Tournament At Country Club Underway

Tourney Schedule Also Posted; Women's Weekly Luncheons and Golf Sessions Start Thursday.

The annual Marion Country club ringer tournament is already underway and scheduling of other traditional club tourneys has been made by club officials with the assistance of Andy K. Dewar, pro.

The monthly ringer scoring for club members began May 26 and will continue until July 1. Scoring for the season started at the same time as the monthly event and will continue until September 5. Prizes will be awarded for the lowest scores on both a monthly and seasonal basis. A ringer score is figured on the lowest marks on each hole made by the individual participant at the end of a specified time. These low scores are totaled at the end of the ringer tournament and are usually much lower than a regular nine or eighteen hole round.

SCHEDULE FOR TOURNEYS ANNOUNCED

Other annual Country club events this summer are as follows: President's trophy qualifying round from June 20 to July 4; Vice-President's trophy qualifying round from July 18 to Aug. 1; Club championship qualifying round from July 4 to July 18.

The Vice-President's tournament this year will be in two divisions, one for golfers with below 100 averages, and those with above 100 scores.

The club championship was won by R. C. "Dick" Isaly last year. He won the title in a tight finals match with Jack Bray. This year, with membership totaling 190, greatest in the history of the club, a hotly contested tourney is in the offing.

WEEKLY LUNCHEONS BEGIN FOR WOMEN

Women of the Country club will begin their annual weekly luncheons and golfing parties Thursday afternoon. Also included in the activities of the ladies will be bridge. Mrs. Howard Stoll is in charge of the feminine events of the Country club this season.

Due to extensive participation of Marion women in war activities such as Red Cross and Canteen work, weaker sex representation on the Country club links this summer will be much smaller than in former years. However, Mrs. Andy Dewar expects enough women on the Prospect Pike layout to warrant continuation of the Thursday luncheons.

VICTORY GARDEN DOING GOOD

The large victory garden, owned on a co-operative basis by Country club members, is coming along in fine shape according to Mrs. Dewar. Most members have their own individual plots planted. This garden runs parallel to the number one fairway, the site in former years of a treacherous rough.

Marion Father-Son Banquet Audience Hears Paul Brown

Famed Coach Paul Brown of the Ohio State university football team told a Marion audience last night that a father's first duty is to his son.

Speaking at the annual Hi-Y father-son banquet at the Y. M. C. A. Brown said, "Many fathers place their business activities before attention to their children. How silly this really is, for what could be more important to a man than the welfare of his children?"

Brown, father of three boys, told the 140 present at the banquet that if anyone were to ask him to make a public appearance on Monday night, he would be compelled to refuse if it conflicted with his regular program. Monday night is set aside by him to attend the meeting of the cub Scout pack of which his eldest son, 11, is a member.

... Speaks About Football

His remarks on father-son relationship came as a climax to a talk in which he spoke informally about the Ohio State football team of last season and prospects for the next season.

Introduced by E. G. Siefert president of the Y.M.C.A. board of directors and presiding chairman at last night's banquet, Coach Brown told what made the 1942 Buckeye football team click. The basis of his team's success, the former Massillon High school mentor believes, was the high plane of the character of the Ohio State team as a whole.

Brown, in reviewing the personnel of last fall's national champions, explained, "All of my boys were just average fellows mentally and morally but with fine physiques and an intense love of the game."

He told of the individual accomplishments and capabilities of the Ohio State starting eleven. In summing up his own feelings on losing such a great ball team Brown said, "I have had a happy two-year experience with my Ohio State boys and have many happy memories of them."

Looking Ahead

In looking to the future and predicting the fortunes of next year's Buckeye team, Coach Brown reconciled himself to the fact that the war must out of necessity take most of the nation's college men. He said only five of last year's varsity and freshmen teams will return to campaign. Under normal conditions, Brown said he would have had 30 lettermen from the 1942 team back next fall. Most of these men are now in the Army Air Corps, and for some reason, Coach Brown said a great majority of collegiate athletes are invariably attracted to flying.

Since Ohio State is a land grant college, an army school instead of the Navy V-12 program prevalent in most Big 10 schools is operating at the Columbus institution. Brown explained that Army school students are not permitted to play intercollegiate football while Navy V-12 cadets may play. The only other Big 10 schools in the same plight as Ohio State are Indiana and Iowa. The rest of the conference will reap the benefit of having Navy programs, Brown said.

Toasts Given

Prior to Mr. Brown's talk and following dinner at 6:30 a toast to all the fathers of Harding Hi-Y members was given by Charles Elliott member of the Junior Hi-Y. E. E. Holt, city superintendent of schools and father of the senior Hi-Y president, Jack Holt, returned the toast with a welcoming address to all the Hi-Y boys.

Immediately following dinner, community singing was led by W. E. Orcutt with Edgar Barnhart at the piano. Chairman Siefert introduced Earl N. Hale, general secretary of the Y, Marion Mewhorter, boys' program director of the Y, Robert Heininger, vice president of the Y's Men's club, Jack Holt, and John McKenney, president of the Junior Hi-Y, and Lt. Forrest "Treeze" Sharrock, former boys' work secretary of the Y now in the Marines.

Pictures Shown

Musical entertainment for the banquet was provided by Bobby Winget who sang "You're a Grand Old Flag" and "Last Night I Said a Prayer." He was accompanied at the piano by Cecil Gabler. The concluding part of the program consisted of pictures of the Ohio State-Iowa Seahawk game of last fall shown by Coach Brown. The Buckeye tutor explained particular outstanding plays of the game and explained formations and individual assignments while showing the films.

Although primarily a Hi-Y father-son banquet, last night's event also included in the guest list members of the Y. M. C. A over 18 years of age and members of the Y's Men's club, recently reorganized Y organization. In charge of arrangements for the banquet was Carl Schell, member of the Y. M. C. A. board of directors.

A printed copy of the annual Y.M.C.A. report was given to everyone present at the banquet. Included in the report were the financial and membership status of the Y, and synopsis of various Y organizations and groups for the past year.

R. A. Axe Named Jr. C. of C. Head

Robert A. Axe (above) was elected president of the Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night in a meeting at the Ohio Fuel Gas. Co. office.

Robert Solinger was elected vice president and W. C. Haldeman, secretary-treasurer. An initiation banquet will be held June 22.

Mr. Axe is affiliated with the L. A. Axe & Son funeral home.

GREEN CAMP — The resignation of Wes Stayner as a member of the village council was accepted at a meeting Monday. A successor will probably be named at the next meeting.

The street and alley committee was authorized to purchase cutback from the county in sufficient quantity to fix the holes in the streets. The committee was authorized to spend $40 for labor for weed cutting.

Revision of an ordinance permitting swine in the village was discussed but no action was taken.

The Green Camp Home Defenders 4-H club will collect tin cans as a community project it was decided when the club met Wednesday with Mrs. Lena Bricker, club advisor. It was planned to have a roller skating party Thursday, June 10. Games were in charge of Louise Long and Bonnie Weston. A first aid demonstration was given by Miss Jeanne Mossbarger.

Officers Installed by Galion Chapter

Special to The Star

GALION, June 9—In Galion Monday for the annual meeting and installation of officers of Louis H. Kreiter Chapter No. 60, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, were State Commander Merton S. Garn, National Service Officer George F. Farling and members of the Marion Navy recruiting office.

The meeting was preceded with a dinner for 70 members and dependents.

Program for the evening included talks by Mr. Farling who is with the veterans administration at Brecksville, Commander Garn of Fremont, Chief Petty Officer John J. Dugan of Marion, Roy Hudson, first class petty officer, of the Toledo district office.

Navy pictures of battle scenes and naval training completed an educational and informative program.

New officers of the chapter were installed by James C. Barnhart of Bucyrus, commander of the Kreiter chapter, and Mrs. Mary Yeichner of Crestline, commander of the auxiliary.

Three Galion civic clubs united for a meeting Monday night at Hotel Talbott to hear representatives of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, Columbus.

The local clubs included the Kiwanis, Rotary and Junior Chamber of Commerce. Speakers were George O'Brien, director of district councils, William Evans, a member of the Research department and C. L. Shank who was the principal speaker. He urged that citizens take more interest in local governments and taxation.

CRESTLINE—Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gray of Lexington are the parents of a son born at Emergency hospital Tuesday.

Casting Tournament Date Set

Lions Club Announces Annual Competition for Next Monday; Five Events Scheduled.

Fishermen from Marion and vicinity will be given an opportunity to test their skill when the fourth annual Lions Club casting tournament is held at McKinley park next Monday starting at 5:30 p. m.

Co-chairmen for the tourney this year, Cecil Gabler and John Peacock, have announced that for the first time in the history of the event anyone is eligible to enter. Competence of young Marion anglers was shown last year when 12-year-old Richard Jerew set a new tournament record for bait casting for accuracy with a score of 91.

Only one session will be held in this year's tournament, that being in the evening. In former years, there have been two divisions, one for men over 18 and one for boys under 18, but this year there will be no divisions.

Prizes for Winners

Merchandise will be presented as prizes for first and second winners in each event. No registration fee is charged this year.

No entry blanks are necessary. Anyone wishing to enter should register with Bob Cunningham, clerk of the tournament.

There will be five events in the tournament this year: Bait casting for distance, bait casting for accuracy, bait casting for both distance and accuracy, fly casting for distance, and fly casting for accuracy.

List of Records

Records for the various events in Lions club tourneys up to this year are as follows: Bait casting for distance, Lewis Nicodemus 150 feet; bait casting for accuracy, Richard Jerew 91; bait casting for both distance and accuracy, L. Gelts 85, fly casting for distance, A. M. Young 80 feet; and fly casting for accuracy, Barney Lepovetsky and F. R. Conklin 80. All of these records were made in last year's tournament except fly casting for distance, set in 1941.

A printed list of rules has been formulated. In the distance events for bait and fly casting, each contestant will be given three casts, with the longest being counted. In the accuracy events, a demerit system will be employed with a cast within a certain distance of a bicycle tire target being required to avoid demerits.

In setting the tournament record for accuracy bait casting, young Jerew, now 13 years old, scored five bulls eyes out of 10 tries. His average miss was less than one foot for each of the ten casts.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"I'M SURE IT does mean the hour he wishes Olina to be at the bank," I said. "There is a faint line running from the word 'tomorrow' commonly in the telegrams right after his request to go to the bank. Of course, the woman could be waiting at the hotel from that hour until Olina came, and a veiled telephone from her to the teller inside the bank could tell her when Olina had left the bank with the money."

"Then that is settled," my father said, rising, and obviously expecting me to get on with my errand. But I had another question, which I put hesitatingly.

"Ruth Hayes does not know Olina, but she does know me," I said, and my father's interruption was quick and a bit impatient.

Will Be Disguised

"She won't know you by the time Halloran gets through with you," he said, with a grim little smile. "You won't be so good-looking as a beat, hard-working chambermaid, Daughter, but your disguise will be most effective. And now, if you don't mind. . . ."

The hint was a command, and my heart sank to my boots at the assignment. I knew, however, there was no use protesting it.

But when I had been admitted to the Veritzen suite by Olina herself, and found her mother and stepfather seated in the living room, I found myself actually shivering as I returned their greetings and sat down in the chair Philip Veritzen put out for me.

Olga's clear, keen eyes swept my face. "Something serious is the matter, dear Madge," she said. "I can see it in your face. Tell us."

Her Reserve Broken

Her affectionate tone broke through my inhibitions, and I knew that in another second or two my story would come pouring out.

But first I looked at Olina. "Have you had time to tell your parents about that note yet?" I asked, and I saw the eyebrows of both Philip Veritzen and his regal wife arch in surprise.

"No, I haven't," she said. "They have just this minute come in. Won't you tell them about it, please?"

Gives Note to Olga

I gave smiling acquiescence to her plea, and turning to Olga held out the note to her.

"Olina received this in your absence from a messenger who insisted that she must tell no one about it. But, suspecting something wrong about it, she brought it to me, as mother of you was here."

"A very proper procedure, Philip Veritzen said, as his wife finished reading the letter and handed it to him.

"But this is incredible," she exclaimed, "that Georges should write anything like this, or make so preposterous a request of Olina. And yet it is his handwriting."

Philip Veritzen looked up from the letter, and his eyes met mine with a comprehending gleam. I saw that my father had told him the story of Stephen Redfield's impersonation of Georges and forgery of the fugitive king's name, but that it had been kept from Olga and Olina.

Reveals the Plot

"That is just the point of the whole thing," I said. "It is not his handwriting." And then, while refraining from naming Stephen Redfield, I told them of the carefully built up scheme to impersonate Georges and get his money.

Olga's dark eyes flashed, and for an instant she was an arrogant queen again.

"And they have dared," she said, "to attempt to make Olina their tool!"

"It was the height of insolence, certainly," I said slowly; "I trust you will not think my father is—"

Olina interrupted me with a little cry of delight.

"Oh! oh!" she cried. "Does he want me to pretend to go through with that errand so that he can trap those awful people?"

"Olina!" her mother said with imperious reproof. Then as she saw my face and eyes she put out her hand gropingly.

"Is that what your father wishes," my dear Madge?" she asked. "Tell me."

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, June 10

AN EXTRAORDINARY state of affairs, presenting openings for pushing to advanced goals of accomplishment and good fortune, is shown in this day's rule of major planets. This may be done with dynamic force, under pressure that might be deemed radical or revolutionary. It is probable that old plans, projects or labors may suddenly be accelerated under the impetus of sudden circumstances that might possibly come as unforeseen rewards for obligations dutifully and cheerfully recognized, for faithful services rendered, or good sound work of a stable and enduring quality. In any case it may be necessary to subdue a sense of frustration.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of a year of extraordinary achievements or conquests, in which labors well performed, obligations nobly fulfilled, or fidelity in services unfalteringly rendered, may receive their just and equitable recognitions and rewards. There may be elements of surprise which may be considered revolutionary and unbelievable.

A child born on this day may have exalted and sound ambitions and aspirations, sustained by industry and constructive ability, although subject to personal depressions or morbidities.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Palpation

Yesterday we discussed the method of diagnosis, which is the physical examination, and which is defined as the information a doctor can gather by means of seeing, feeling and hearing, and we briefly went over a case to show how the average doctor would analyze such results.

Today let us go on to the next method used in physical examination—the information a doctor can obtain through his sense of feeling. Technically this is known as palpation and has been used since the very earliest times. The father of medicine, Hippocrates, used palpation thousands of years ago on the shores of the Aegean sea.

In nearly all of us the sense of sight is far more sensitive than the sense of feeling and hearing. But as many people have found, the latent senses can be greatly developed. Good surgeons have a very delicate sense of feeling. I knew one who trained his fingers by exercising an hour a day feeling objects underneath two layers of blankets and an eiderdown quilt, with his eyes shut, so that when he was palpating inside an abdomen he would be able to make the finer distinctions.

There was also the famous case of a physician in Chicago who was blind, but who became one of the foremost specialists in the country in diseases of the heart and lungs. Perhaps the very fact that he was blind, by compensation, increased the acuteness of his other senses for diagnosis — those of feeling and hearing.

One of the signs evident to palpation is crepitus. This was a sign, incidentally, that Hippocrates described long ago. Crepitus means grating and it is felt over a bone that has been broken. The two ends of the bone are rough and after the accident the surgeon, in moving the limbs, rubs these two edges over each other, which conveys to his fingers the sensation of crepitus, or crepitation.

Palpation is used in many other conditions. For instance, if you put your hands over the upper part of your chest and say, "One, two, three," the sensation or vibration will be conveyed to your fingers. This is technically known as vocal fremitus. It is obvious that the vibration is produced in the vocal cords and is carried through the air spaces of the lungs, through the skin, to the examining fingers.

Now if the lung spaces are filled up, as in pneumonia and certain cases of tuberculosis, the vibration will be transmitted better, which is a valuable sign. If also there is a pleurisy, so that a soft wall or layer of tissue is interposed between your fingers and the soft tissue, the fremitus will be diminished which is also a valuable sign.

It is evident that it takes a great deal of experience in examining normal people and sick people to be sure whether the fremitus is increased or diminished. This is what medical students are supposed to get in the course of their education.

Palpation is also very valuable in examination of the abdomen for disease. Many inflammations in the abdomen throw the muscles above into spasm and very delicate shades or degrees of spasm or rigidity can be made out by the experienced surgeon or diagnostician.

If Hitler wins, the issue for you will be living itself and not just the cost of living. Think that over and figure it out for yourself how much beyond 10 percent of your family income you should put into War Bonds every payday.
